AN EMPTY LANDING — The Sausalito ferry slip, normally crowded with commuters, stands empty against a gray San Francisco skyline. The ferry system was hit by a strike yesterday and early morning commuters had to be bussed into San Francisco. Normal service was resumed at noon today, but a meeting that could affect service was to be held at 2 p.m. Rain added to the commuters' inconvenience as a new storm moved into the Bay Area with a promise of more rain through tomorrow. Rainfall ranged from a low of .22 of an inch in Novato to a high of .52 in Bolinas in the 24-hour period to 8 a.m. today.

Trial Recess Asked For Nixon Evidence

Testimony Is Termed Vital For Ehrlichman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defendant John D. Ehrlichman, contending that Richard M. Nixon was "at the heart" of the Watergate affair, today asked the court to excuse the cover-up jury over the Christmas holidays to await testimony from the ailing former president.

The prosecution called the proposal "unrealistic" on grounds that it would expose the jury — which has been sequestered for two months — to trial publicity. U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica declined to rule immediately on the request.

Ehrlichman's attorney, William S. Frates, contended that Nixon is "an indispensable" witness and the trial cannot be concluded without his testimony. Doctors say that testimony could not come until January at the earliest.

"In this regard," Frates said in the brief, "the government has contended and the evidence now shows that Mr. Nixon was at the heart of the activity which the government now seeks to contend is a violation of the laws of the United States."

He added that Nixon could testify that Ehrlichman was not a part of a conspiracy and "never entertained the corrupt intent" for which he was charged. Without Nixon's testimony, he said, there would be "a big hole in the case."

Frates said it would now seem impossible to wrap up the nine-week trial by Christmas. Thus, he suggested that the bulk of the testimony could be completed by Dec. 23 or 24, when the jury could be excused until Nixon is capable of providing a deposition from his home in California.

The trial had been expected to end before Christmas. But a court-appointed panel of physicians concluded last week after examining Nixon that he would be unable to provide a deposition until at least Jan. 6.

Attorneys for H.R. Haldeman, who with Ehrlichman is one of five former Nixon aides now on trial, added that they also faced a "serious problem" if the trial ends without Nixon's testimony. Ehrlichman, however, is the only defendant who has subpoenaed the former president.

Frates called it a "common sense" proposal. But Assistant Watergate Prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste said, "I think that it is unrealistic."

Ben-Veniste noted that to release the jurors would be to expose them to all the publicity surrounding the trial of Ehr-

Deckhand Strike Stops Ferry Runs

Deckhands protesting weekend maintenance work without overtime pay walked off their jobs yesterday on the Sausalito ferry, halting service this morning as well.

Members of the Inland Boatmen's Union of the Pacific went back to work at noon today, and a meeting with Golden Gate Bridge District officials was set this afternoon.

A 50-50 chance that the work stoppage will be resumed was predicted by the district's ferry transit manager, Stanley M. Kowleski. The 2 p.m. meeting was to be held in union headquarters in San Francisco.

District buses picked up commuters arriving in Sausalito for the run across the bay to San Francisco. Ferry serivce resumed with the 12:25 p.m. departure from Sausalito.

Kowleski got the deckhands back to work after he advised the union at a 10 a.m. meeting that he would not begin negotiating until they ended the strike.

Kowleski told the Independent-Journal the strike violated both the contract between the district and union and state law prohibiting strikes by public employees.

Douglas W. Crute, business agent for the union, told the I-J the deckhands were fed up with what he said were district attempts to increase maintenance work without overtime pay as required by the contract. He said the men also resented a recent order barring them from making their own sandwiches and coffee, forcing them to buy instead from the concessionaire on the boat.

Crute said there were other similar changes in work rules made unilaterally by the district, but declined to elaborate on them. The overtime pay dispute was "just one of the issues," he declared, adding "they're chiseling on us, and we're not going to stand for it any more."

Noting that the present three-year contract expires in August, Crute said "I assure you they'll come up with plenty to make up for their past chiseling, or they'll have trouble."

Kowleski said the unannounced walkout also was tied to upcoming negotiations over crews for the new ferryboat due in Feburary. He insisted the contract, under which the deckhands have worked for two and a half years, requires them to do the maintenance as part of their regular work shift.

The maintenance primarily involves washing down the inside and exterior of the vessel.

The contract specifies a grievance procedure, Kowleski said, "but the union never made any official attempt to solve this thing," Commenting that an unannounced strike "is not the way the contract calls for it (dispute) to be settled," he charged the union with "a lack of good faith."

The shutdown canceled all 16 trips yesterday and eight of today's 22 trips. The ferry carries about 320 commuters in morning peak hours and up to 500 in the evening runs.

Arab Oil Ministers Offer UNESCO Fund

BEIRUT (UPI) — Arab oil ministers have decided to offer $16 million to the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to make up for the equal amount the United States is withholding from UNESCO, Arab press reports said today.

The reports said the oil ministers made the decision at a meeting of the 10-nation Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries ministerial council in Bahrain yesterday.

DETAILS OF ARMS PACT TO BE TOLD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford will disclose the terms of a new U.S.-Soviet offensive strategic arms agreement and make a statement on the economy during a televised news conference late this afternoon, a spokesman announced.

The televised news conference, scheduled to begin at 4:30 p.m. PST, is to be the first time Ford has publicly disclosed the terms of an agreement which he made recently in a summit meeting wit Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, who outlined the President's plans for the news conference, declined to characterize the promised statement on the economy or even to say whether Ford was prepared to announce any new major decisions.

Bond Issue Lists Open Space Land

The open space bond issue proposed for Corte Madera lists 15 properties of townwide significance and another five of neighborhood significance for the town to try to buy with $1 million.

Wording was hammered out last week by town staff and bond attorneys, following the recommendation of a citizens committee, and will go before the city council tonight. Deadline is Dec. 4 to place the measure on the March 4 ballot.

The wording commits the town to try first to buy "properties of townwide significance serving to distinguish the town from surrounding areas and the Bay."

Fifteen parcels totaling 247.51 acres and assessed at a fair market value of $929,748 are listed.

The largest is the 66.48-acre area east of U.S. 101 where Cal West Properties currently plans its Madera Del Presidio housing development. Also on the list are two adjoining parcels of 19.29 acres behind the Koch plant.

Another huge Tiburon ridge parcel, 52.57 acres on the hillside above Prince Royal Drive, also is on the list, along with a 2.61-acre piece adjoining it.

Three areas are targeted along the forested Northridge — the 58.31-acre parcel held by Horizons West and two others totaling 10.85 acres.

Along Meadowsweet Ridge, six small parcels totaling 15.59 acres are earmarked.

The 21.45-acre triangular marsh along Paradise Drive east of San Clemente School is ticketed.

The town may go ahead and acquire the other five parcels of neighborhood significance only when "substantially all" of

Tests Show Marin Students Are Among The Best In State

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Students of most Marin County school districts continued to rank among the best in California in statewide tests given last school year, but Bolinas-Stinson and Lagunitas Elementary School Districts dropped sharply in the rankings.

A district-by-district report of the statewide testing program for the 1973-74 school year has just been released by the state Department of Education.

Dixie, Larkspur and Ross Elementary School Districts ranked in the top 10 per cent of all California districts on all six tests given in second through sixth grades. Kentfield and Reed districts were in the top 10 per cent on five tests; Mill Valley and San Anselmo, on four; San Rafael High School District, on three; Nicasio and Lincoln Elementary and Tamalpais High School District, on two each; Laguna and Lagunitas Elementary and Novato Unified School District, on one each.

Bolinas-Stinson, however, fell into the bottom 10 per cent, statewide, in second and third grade reading and sixth grade mathematics.

Also in the bottom 10 per cent on one or more tests were Laguna, Lincoln, Nicasio and Union Elementary School Districts. However, the Department of Education cautioned that extremely small classes in districts of this size make distortion of averages easy, so rankings may be misleading.

For the 1972-73 school year, no test scores were reported for primary grades in the Bolinas-Stinson district, but its sixth graders ranked near the top except in mathematics. On a scale running from a low of 1 to a high of 99, Bolinas-Stinson sixth graders in the 1972-73 tests ranked 96 in reading, 88 in language, 89 in spelling, and 59 in mathematics.

Last school year's sixth grade in the Bolinas-Stinson district ranked 32 in reading, 17 in language, 19 in spelling, and 6 in mathematics. Its second grade ranked at the bottom — 1 — in reading; its third grade, 21.

There were sharp drops in the rankings on four tests in Lagunitas district, though not so extreme as those in Bolinas-Stinson. Lagunitas dropped from 68 the previous year to 33 last school year in second grade reading; from 59 to 14 in third grade reading; from 82 to 60 in sixth grade spelling, and from 88 to 29 in sixth grade mathematics. It ranked 90 in sixth grade reading, however, one place higher than the preceding year.

Fairfax Elementary School District dropped from 82 the previous year to 52 in third grade reading, and from 72 to 46 in sixth grade spelling.

The tests are given in reading in second, third, sixth and 12th grades, and in language, spelling and mathematics in sixth and 12th grades. In the 1973-74 school year a change was made in first grade, giving a reading test in October to show reading ability at entry level, rather than near the end of the school year as previously.

State-devised tests replaced the Cooperative Primary Reading Tests previously used in second and third grades. The result was generally higher scores for all pupils.

Fog Is Cause Of 33-Car Pileup

TRACY (AP) — Nine persons were injured when 33 cars piled up in dense fog on Interstate 205, causing closure of the highway for nearly two hours, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The mammoth collision early yesterday involved 21 cars eastbound and 12 cars westbound one mile east of the Interstate 580 turnoff. Traffic was diverted while tow trucks cleared the wreckage.

Three persons were admitted to a local hospital with broken legs. The other injuries all were minor.

Early Ballots Show Close Vote On Coal Agreement

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Striking coal miners voted by secret ballot today for the first time in United Mine Workers history to accept or reject a new wage contract with the coal industry.

The first early returns, from four UMW locals in Pennsylvania, showed a vote of 514-512 for ratification of the proposed three-year agreement, which union leaders said called for a 64 per cent increase in economic benefits.

In Washington, UMW President Arnold Miller sent telegrams asking all local unions to keep their ballot boxes open an extra day — through 8 p.m. EST Wednesday — because of heavy snow which has hindered travel in the coal fields.

"We want to maximize rank and file participation in this the union's first ratification vote by allowing every member the opportunity to exercise his democratic option," Miller said.

Miners at U. S. Steel's Maple Creek mine in Washington County, Pa., voted 238-223 to accept, but at the Tunnelton Mining Co. in Indiana County, Pa., the vote was 199-92 against acceptance.

Other results in favor of acceptance were a 67-52 vote at Republic Steel's Banning mine near Pittsburgh and 117-38 at Consolidation Coal's Renton mine, also in the Pittsburgh area.

The early returns were too few to establish any trend.

Arnold Miller predicted acceptance by 60 per cent or more of the vote.

"I believe it's the best agreement that anyone ever negotiated," said UMW President Miller.

Miller and other UMW leaders spent the weekend in coal fields urging miners to approve the three-year contract. They said it provides a 64 per cent increase in economic benefits.

However, there were some complaints from miners that the contract lacked local right-to-strike protection and failed to sufficiently improve pensions.

The union planned to finish counting votes by late Wednesday and predicted miners could return to work later this week if the agreement is approved.

Violence erupted yesterday for the first time in the 21-day-old strike when a truck driver fired on a coal miner after 40 miners tried to block the movement of stockpiled coal from a Washington County, Pa., rail yard to a nearby U.S. Steel Corp. plant.

No injuries were reported, but several truck windows were smashed and a car believed to belong to one of the miners was damaged by a stray shotgun blast.

Miller said opposition to the package appeared to come from only a vocal minority.

"It's very easy for someone to be very vocal in anything, but that doesn't mean it's in the majority by any stretch of the imagination," he said. "Surely there are going to be areas of criticism. And I'm not completely satisfied, but I've gotten everything I could."

Miller was asked about the lack of a strike provision over local grievances.

"I don't know if we ever would have gotten it, but I know it would have cost a lengthy strike," Miller said.

If the pact is turned down, Miller said he would return to the bargaining table.

"I don't know what I'll do there. But I'll go back," he said.

The union leader, a native of Ohley, W. Va., who formerly worked in the pits himself, said tte vote would reflect whether miners have confidence in his leadership. Miller predicted the package would be ratified "by 60 per cent and up" of the miners voting.

But some dissident miners traveled roads in Raleigh County, W.Va., during the weekend with "vote it down" signs attached to their cars.

Dean Burch Resigns Ford Administration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today accepted with "the deepest regret" the resignation of Dean Burch, last of the major Nixon administration officials still in the White House.

Burch came to the White House Feb. 15 to aid former President Richard M. Nixon's unsuccessful attempt to ride out the Watergate scandal, and remained to serve for four months as Ford's chief political adviser. He was Sen. Barry Goldwater's campaign manager in his unsuccessful 1964 presidential bid.

Burch's resignation is effective Dec. 31. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Burch will join the Washington law firm of Pearson, Ball and Dowd, specialists in communications matters.

In his resignation letter, dated Nov. 29, Burch said it had been a pleasure to serve first as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, then at the White House.

"These have been momentous years for me, at once satisfying, frustrating, rewarding and painful . . ." Burch said.

"These past months in your administration have been truly gratifying ... You have grasped the falling standard and by generous applications of hard work, wisdom and above all, human sensitivity, have restored this country's faith in the constitutional system."

Ford replied, "Your services will be greatly missed ... you can be sure that Betty (Mrs. Ford) and I extend our warmest best wishes.

"In particular I am grateful for your help during those early, critically important days following my assumption to the presidency when I could with confidence call upon your good counsel as well as your leadership."

Burch was Ford's main adviser in planning strategy for the November congressional elections, which produced increased Democratic control of the House and Senate.

Nixon called Burch to the White House both to advise on Watergate strategy and to help defend him to the press, Congress, fellow Republicans and the public.

WHERE PLANE HIT — The wreckage of a Trans World Airlines 727 Boeing jets burns at Uppervilla, Va., after it crashed with 92 aboard yesterday. Workers today had recovered scores of bodies and two flight recorders. In another 727 crash in New York three persons were killed. (UPI Telephoto)

95 Die In Crash Of 2 Boeing Jets

UPPERVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Search parties digging through a two-inch overnight snowfall today found the flight recorders they hoped would provide a clue to what caused a Trans World Airlines 727 Boeing jet to crash yesterday killing 92 persons.

The search for bodies in the worst domestic air disaster of the year resumed at 6:30 a.m. today in the mountains 20 miles west of Dulles International Airport.

Thomas Kunkel, FBI special agent who is coordinating the body search, said at least 80 bodies had been removed from the mountain by four hours later.

Bill Weston, of the National Transportation Safety Board which investigates domestic air crashes, said both flight recorders were found intact.

"The flight recorder located in the tail section will tell us the altitude air speed, heading, and G's (gravity pull)," said T. R. O'Brien, a Safety Board spokesman. "The flight recorder in the nose will hopefully have the last 30 minutes of conversation between the crew and the Dulles tower."

The airliner, on an inaugural flight from Indianapolis, Ind., to Washington via Columbus, Ohio, ripped through the trees, hit a six-foot rock outcropping and exploded. The scene is about a mile from a tightly secured government relocation center on Mount Weather, part of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

"There were absolutely no survivors and it will be difficult to identify many of the remains because of their condition," said Dr. George Hocker, the Loudon County medical officer.

The impact of the crash was so severe many bodies were unrecognizable, making positive identification a drawn-out task.

Among the 85 passengers killed were Army Brig. Gen. Roscoe C. Cartwright, one of the first six blacks to reach star rank in the armed services, and his wife Gloria.

Other victims included James Applewhite, a legislative assistant to Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga., and his wife Susie, an aide to Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., and special FBI agent Sheila J. Regan.

The son of Rep. William Bray, R-Ind., said the congressman's life may have been saved because he decided to catch the Army-Navy football game rather than go home to Indiana for the weekend. Bray usually flies back to Washington Sunday morning, said his son, state Rep. Richard Bray, and could have been aboard the plane except for the change in plans.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., was at National Airport when news of the crash came. He had planned to catch the plane on the return flight to Indiana.

National Airport is located in heavily populated Arlington, Va., just across the Potomac River from Washington. Many flight paths into the airport cut right across the nation's capital. Dulles is located in the heavily rural area west of Washington.

Another Boeing 727, a Northwest Airlines jet en route to pick up the Baltimore Colts football team and fly the players home from a game in Buffalo, N.Y., crashed last night in swampy woodland in New York's Bear Mountain State Park. All three persons aboard — the flight crew — were killed.

TWA's Flight 514 originated in Indianapolis and stopped in Columbus, Ohio. It had been scheduled to land at Washington National Airport but was diverted to Dulles International Airport because of the weather — thunderstorms, heavy rain and wind gusting up to 61 miles per hour.

Federal Aviation Administration officials said their communications from Capt. Richard I. Brock and his crew were normal until the three-engine jet disappeared from the radar screens about 11:10 a.m.

Israel Tells Of Nuclear Potential

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Israeli President Ephraim Katzir told visiting science writers Israel has a nuclear potential that should worry the world, the Tel Aviv newspaper Ma'ariv reported today.

It said Katzir made the comment at a reception in his Jerusalem home yesterday for visiting American and European science writers. Katzir is a biochemist and the first high Israeli official to speak of such nuclear potential.

"Israel has a nuclear potential," Ma'ariv quoted Katzir as saying. Israel has had two nuclear reactors for more than 10 years.

The president, in office since the spring, would not say whether the potential was for peaceful or belligerent purposes.

"What about the possibilities and target dates for realizing that potential?" Katzir was asked.

"Doesn't this pose a worrying subject?" a newsman asked.

"Why should this subject worry us," Katzir said. "The world should worry."

There have been rumors that Russia might supply such nuclear potential to the Arab nations, and London diplomatic reports today said the Soviet Union planned to give Egypt a nuclear reactor soon to try to bolster its influence in Cairo. The United States also promised Egypt a reactor but the move has bogged down in red tape.

Israel never has released details about the programs under study at its nuclear reactors, one of them a highly secret installation in the Negev near Dimona. The other is at Nahal Sorek, near coastal Ashdod.

News of Israel's nuclear potential previously erupted in June when the United States promised nuclear aid to Egypt and Israel during former President Richard M. Nixon's Middle East tour in June.

The promised aid was accompanied by assurances from Washington that it would not be used to build nuclear weapons. Then Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Nixon's promise of a reactor to Egypt could make his peace mission "a fatal and historic mistake."

The text of a U.S.-Israeli communique released on Nixon's departure June 17 said both governments "will negotiate an agreement on cooperation in the field of nuclear energy, technology and the supply of fuel from the United States under agreed safeguards."

The communique recognized Israel's intention to purchase reactors from the United States for use as atom power plants. It said both countries "will in the current month reach provisional agreement on the further sale of nuclear fuel to Israel."

The Lebanese defense Ministry reported today that its coastal gunfire chased off an Israeli gunboat which approached the Lebanese coast today near the south Lebanon port city of Tyre.

A spokesman for the Palestine News Agency said earlier a number of Israeli gunboats were sighted offshore near the Palestinian refugee camp of Rashidiyeh, just south of Tyre. But the agency spokesman said no shots were fired by either side.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

New Prime Minister Selected

TOKYO (UPI) — Members of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party chose American educated Takeo Miki as Japan's new prime minister but today they delayed final action on the nomination until Wednesday.

Miki

Miki, a 67-year-old former deputy premier who has been in politics for 37 years, was picked over three other potential contenders yesterday to succeed Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, 56, who announced his resignation Nov. 26 in the midst of a shaky political situation resulting from corruption charges.

Party sources said the caucus of the party's 405 members in the two houses of the Diet (parliament) was postponed until Wednesday so they could make preparations for the nomination.

Bomb Expert Killed

BELFAST (UPI) — A milk can stuffed with explosives today blew up in the face of an army bomb expert trying to defuse it, killing him instantly, security sources said.

"He was actually leaning over it and removing the lid when the bomb went off," one source said.

The death was the first reported in the province in the past seven days.

Meantime, the discovery of a U.S. Army M16 rifle in an arms find near Newry prompted speculation that the Irish Republican Army has received a new arms shipment from the United States, police said.

Guard Beefed Up

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — More than 1,700 National Guardsmen today joined a fully mobilized police force to guard Puerto Rico's strike-bound water facilities, hit by a wave of sabotage during the weekend.

Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon called out 400 more Guardsmen yesterday to join 1,340 others mobilized last week. He has blamed such outbreaks on Marxist-led independence movements.

The FBI entered the search for saboteurs who planted 13 bombs in four island cities early yesterday. All the bombs — 10 exploded and police disarmed three others — were aimed at American-owned businesses and U.S. Government facilities.

Assassination Try

Police launched a nationwide dragnet for the gunman who fired three shots at Walter Leisler Kiep, treasurer of the opposition Christian Democratic party, late Saturday night but missed him.

A caller, identifying himself as a member of the self-styled "Red Army Faction" guerrilla gang told the West German news agency DPA yesterday that "we assume responsibility" for the attempt on the life of the 48-year-old Kiep.

The gang's leaders, Ulrike Meinhof and Andreas Baader, are in jail awaiting trial on charges including murder and bombing.

Cyprus Talks

ATHENS (UPI) The government of Greece and the leadership of the Greek community on Cyprus have adopted an "agreed line" for negotiations with Turkey on the future of the Mediterranean island.

Premier Constantine Caramanlis agreed over the weekend on a common policy with the two main Greek Cypriot leaders — Archbishop Makarios and Acting President Glafkos Clerides.

Ethiopian Bombs

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — Bombs exploded at two key points in the Ethiopian capital within 15 minutes of each other today, wrecking a wing of the city hall but causing only minor damage to a nearby luxury hotel.

No injuries were reported.

The city hall blast could be heard throughout the capital. It virtually destroyed one wing of the concrete three-story building but caused no casualties.

The second, smaller explosion, less than a mile away at the Wabi Shebelle hotel, blew out windows in the two-story bedroom wing.

IRA Arrests

LONDON (UPI) — British police early today arrested an Irish Republican Army leader in Bristol and ordered him deported. A second Irishman was charged with murder in a pub bombing that killed five Britons in October.

The man arrested in Bristol was identified as 28-year-old James Flynn, an executive member of the British branch of the Official Sinn Fein, the political front of the newly outlawed IRA.

Flynn was the second man detailed under expulsion orders since Britain's antiterrorist act became law on Friday.

Police said the man charged in Guildford was among 13 London men and women arrested in a major break-through in the search for the bombers who have killed 50 Britons and wounded hundreds of others in the past two years.

TODAY'S WORLD

Put AF One In Hanger: Goldwater

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., today called upon President Ford to leave Air Force One in the hangar for the next eight months and concentrate instead on the "real problems" at home.

In a harsh challenge to Ford which he said would determine his support for the President in 1976, Goldwater also described the new U.S.-Soviet agreement to limit strategic nuclear arms as meaningless and added he is "leaning" against voting for Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president.

Referring to Ford's recent trip to the Far East and his announced intentions to visit China in 1975, Goldwater said the President "appears not to be putting enough time" on domestic problems.

"Nothing would make me happier than to see him put Air Force One in the hangar for at least eight months and stay home and begin recognizing the real problems we have here," he said.

"I think he's aware of them, but you have to give some evidence if you're the leader that you're going some place and you're not going to get those answers in China or Russia."

He said he intends to support Ford for the presidency in 1976 only "if he does a good job (and) if he demonstrates his leadership qualities."

Goldwater was interviewed on the NBC Today Show.

Goldwater said the arms agreement which Ford sealed in a summit meeting with Soviet Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev was "just another play by the Russians to try to fool some of our detente happy people."

Asked about Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's claim that the agreement had "capped the arms race," Goldwater replied: "I don't believe that for one second and I really don't think he does."

NUTRITION AND THE WHOLE YOU

A recent I.J. editorial said right eating isn't the only approach to good health. We agree and are delighted to find "new age" health professionals turning to holistic treatment. This means considering the entire person on physical, mental, emotional and spiritual levels.

But long experience proves to us that balanced nutrition is the basis of optimum health, beginning with a quality multi-vitamin formula. FORTRESS is an exceptional one. It has a wider variety of nutrients, including generous amounts of vitamins E, C and bioflavonoids. Come in and compare FORTRESS ingredients for potency and price and let's talk about the whole you.

LOTS OF ROOM IN SANTA'S WORKSHOP

Robert Collins (center) plays with little Katrina and Ariel Arcieri around a Santa Claus in a very empty building, soon to become a very busy one, in Mill Valley. The building, at East Blithedale and Camino Alto Way, will be the center of activity for Tiny Tim's Christmas, an annual Marin County effort aimed at providing toys and food for some 400 to 500 needy families. Toys may be dropped off at fire departments throughout the county or at McDonald's restaurants. Canned goods may be brought to the center, the old Purity store.

Eased Pot Plan Ends At Beginning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Criminal prosecution for possession of small amounts of marijuana was to have ended as of today but officials have reversed their stand.

The District of Columbia's brief fling with liberalized pot arrests has ended before it started. U.S. Attorney Earl J. Silbert announced three weeks ago that his office would no longer file charges against persons arrested in Washington with five or fewer cigarettes or less than one gram of marijuana.

Now, however, Silbert's office has canceled the policy decision following an uproar from both the justice department and metropolitan police.

Silbert wanted to reduce the backlog of pending court cases involving marijuana arrests, saying they account for up to 25 per cent of all misdemeanor charges in the district. The plan, he said, would help "allocate our limited resources to crimes of violence — such as rape, robbery, murder" and organized criminal activity.

Silbert had cleared his new enforcement plans with both the justice department and top police officials, but he began to get heat immediately. High Justice Department officials — reportedly as high as Attorney General William B. Saxbe — urged Silbert to reconsider on the grounds his approach would set a precedent throughout the country.

Spokesmen for both Silbert and Saxbe denied the attorney general had applied pressure. Saxbe, said spokesman Robert Havel, felt Silbert "was not going to change the law by administrative fiat" and "Saxbe feels you have to enforce the law."

Marijuana use in the District is common at rock concerts and demonstrations with little trouble from the police, but pot arrests have climbed steadily in recent years. In 1970, there were only 266 arrests but in 1973, the figure climbed to 2,553 — with 91 per cent for simple possession.

Daley Said After A Sixth Term

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Richard J. Daley, powerful 72-year-old head of Chicago's Democratic organization, will announce this week that he will seek an unprecedented sixth term as mayor, it was reported yesterday.

Both Chicago's Sunday morning newspapers, the Tribune and the Sun-Times, carried stories quoting sources saying Daley will announce his reelection Wednesday or Thursday at a meeting of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee.

Daley was expected to attend the Democratic party's "mini-convention" at Kansas City next weekend, and the Sun-Times reported its source said of Daley, "He's not going to that convention as a lame duck."

Daley has been mayor of Chicago since 1955 and has headed the county Democratic party since 1953. He suffered a mild stroke last spring, underwent corrective surgery June 2 and convalesced at his summer home in Michigan for nearly three months before returning to City Hall.

He has dropped hints both that he will run and that he will retire as mayor, but has said he will make his decision after considering advice from his doctors and his family.

Karl Scheppelmann Seeks School Seat In Fairfax

Karl T. Scheppelmann, chairman of the Fairfax School District's White Hill School multiuse facility committee, has filed for election to the district board.

The terms of trustees Thomas A. Truchan and C. Patrick Fitzgerald expire in March. Fitzgerald, a six-year member of the board, does not seek reelection.

Scheppelmann, 39, said he is running for a board seat because of his interest in school affairs. "Basically, I'm just interested. I have no personal axes to grind," said Scheppelmann.

Scheppelmann, a butcher at Schepp's Meats in the Food Villa building on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, said he probably would not be seeking election if Fitzgerald was running for reelection. "I'm satisfied with the board," he said.

Scheppelmann, father of four children aged 11 through 16, said a prime concern is "making sure each student gets a year's growth out of a year's work." Students should complete requirements for graduation to the next grade before they advance in the school system, he said.

Seeks school seat

Scheppelmann explained that one of his children had graduated from the eighth grade "and didn't even know how to figure percentages ... she had to learn it on her own."

"I'm not that interested in (the methods educators use to teach) but I want the kids to learn," he said.

He said the school district should sell Central School, possibly for use as a library or area recreational facility. He said he supports the district's bid to build a multiuse facility at White Hill School.

"The children are now forced to use classrooms at White Hill as gymnasiums ... It's costing the district money not to have a gymnasium facility," he said.

He said he considers the school board to be an apolitical body. "The school board exists to help children learn, not to become involved in politics," he said.

"There's a lot of different opinions on the Fairfax board, but everybody listens to reason ... I could never work on a city council in Fairfax," he said.

Scheppelmann, a native of San Francisco, is a 19-year resident of Fairfax. He is a graduate of the San Francisco public school system.

He lives at 32 Oak Tree Lane in Fairfax.

Petaluman Arrested In Knife Fight

Michael Larry Hendricks of 1297 Lombardi Avenue was held on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and possession of an illegal knife after his arrest at about 1 a.m. at the Hideaway, 128 Kentucky Street.

After his arrest, police said, Hendricks told them, "I hope I didn't cut the guy's throat — the guy just made me mad so I cut him."

The two had apparently been drinking, and some witnesses said they had begun an argument, although others said the knifing was unprovoked.

Hendricks was freed after posting $15,000 bond. He was to be arraigned today in Sonoma Municipal Court.

Two Women Are Bilked Of $5,650 By Con Men

Two San Rafael women were bilked out of $5,650 by a team of con artists in similar bunco schemes last week, San Rafael police said today.

One 87-year-old woman was bilked of $1,450 on Monday, and a 68-year-old woman was bilked of $4,200 on Tuesday and Wednesday, police said.

Police said the same con artists were involved in both incidents. They gave this account of the $4,200 bilking:

Police said the first woman received a call from a man named Miller who purported to be a bank examiner. He asked her how much money was in her account, claimed there was a discrepancy, and said bank officials suspected a teller of wrongdoing.

He instructed her to withdraw $2,100 from the account and return home. She returned home with a $2,100 cashier's check.

The man then called again, learned of the cashier's check, and told her to convert it to cash, since officials needed to "process" the money for fingerprints. She did.

The next day the woman received two more calls; one from Miller, the other from a woman who said she was Miller's bank secretary. She was told that she had gone to the wrong teller at the bank, and that the entire operation would have to be repeated.

The victim withdrew another $2,100 and turned it over to Booker, who again appeared at her door.

The elderly woman appeared at her bank again last on Friday and learned that she had been bilked.

The con artists used the same scenario in taking the $1,450 from the 87-year-old victim, police said.

Police described the man named Booker as being in his 40s, standing about 5 feet, nine inches tall, and having brown hair and brown eyes.

I-J Damage Suit Trial Judge Named

OAKLAND (UPI) — Alameda County Superior Court Judge William J. Hayes was selected today to try the complex damage suit brought by the San Rafael Independent-Journal against various labor unions and individuals.

The newspaper is asking $12 million damages for violence resulting from a strike against the company that began in January, 1970.

The complex case was transferred to Alameda County and Presiding Judge Spurgeon Avakian first named Superior Court Judge John P. Sparrow to try the case. His selection was chellenged on behalf of the unions involved on grounds that Sparrow was prejudiced and the unions could not receive a fair trial.

Judge Avakian immediately withdrew Sparrow's name and appointed Hayes. After the numerous defendants had consulted, it was announced that there would be no challenge to the Hayes appointment.

The Independent-Journal filed suit against the International Typographers Union, its San Francisco Local 21, the Joint Council of Teamsters No. 7 and its Local 921, the San Francisco and Marin Labor Councils and various other unions and individuals.

The complaint alleged that the unions had interfered with the business of the newspaper by unlawful means, including assault, arson, murder, intimidation and other violent activities, for the purpose of bringing pressure on the Independent-Journal to make it cease publication. All defendants were charged with conspiracy to either support or sanction illegal actions by the typographers.

The newspaper asked about $1.4 million in special damages, including $800,000 spent for security precautions. It asked general damages and $10 million in punitive damages.

A spokesman for the newspaper said the large amount asked for punitive damages was "for the sake of example" because the unions' activities had been "intentional and malicious."

Ruling Due On Shop Center Suit

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Sonoma Superior Court Judge Joseph P. Murphy Jr. is expected to rule this week on a suit by the City of Santa Rosa, charging Rohnert Park with approving a faulty environmental report on a planned regional shopping center.

Santa Rosa charges that the environmental report does not take into account the effect of Rohnert Park's center on surrounding retailers.

Horse Session Is Postponed

A public meeting of horseowners and horse lovers called by the Marin County Horsemen's Advisory Committee for Wednesday has been postponed until Dec. 17, a spokesman said.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the planning commission chambers at the Marin Civic Center.

Derailment Try Causes Cab Damage

An attempted derailment of a Northwestern Pacific Railroad train near the Atherton Avenue-Highway 101 overcrossing in Novato resulted Saturday morning in the collision of a train with a hydraulic scaffold.

Novato police said someone using a nearby tractor attempted to roll the metal pipe scaffold onto the tracks between 4:40 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday.

The upper portion of the scaffold was protruding over the tracks when a northbound train approached at 8:30 a.m. Saturday. The engineer attempted to stop, but the train collided with the scaffold and two cab windows were broken, police reported.

The damage to the scaffold and train was estimated at $5,100.

those 15 are acquired, of if the other five are "threatened with immediate development," the bond issue reads.

The other five, all in east Corte Madera, total about 30 acres, and are assessed a fair market value of $161,250. They include two parcels totaling 8.7 acres near All Faiths Church, a one-acre piece at the head of San Clemente Creek, and a 19.33-acre parcel and adjoining one-acre parcel on Paradise Drive now owned by Thomas and Mary Deffebach.

The resolution accompanying the ballot measure says the town will try to get "county, state, federal and private funds wherever possible" to aid its purchases.

The resolution guards against accusations of inverse condemnation by saying the owners are entitled "to all rights of use and development . . . until formal action is taken by the Town Council for the specific acquisition" of the property.

The citizens committee which formulated the proposals was headed by Naomi Seward, Brenda Brown and Darlene Thompson.

Cash Taken By Robber At Novato Station

An unidentified man about 25 to 35 years old who implied that he had a weapon robbed the Redwood Petroleum service station, 7300 Redwood Highway, Novato, of an undetermined amount of cash Saturday.

Novato police said the man approached the station attendant Steven P. Sizemore, 16, of 23 Sinaloa Court, Novato, at about 7:45 p.m. and ordered him to open the cash drawer saying, "I don't want to flip you out but this is a stickup."

He then ordered Sizemore to walk in the opposite direction and he fled with the money, police said.

Workings Of Tax Group To Be Told

Property Taxpayers of Marin, a group formed to fight the spiraling cost of local government, will hear tomorrow how a similar organization in Contra Costa County is operated.

The session, scheduled for 8 p.m. in the board of supervisors' meeting room at Civic Center, will feature William P. Baker, executive vice president of the Contra Costa Taxpayers' Association, as the main speaker.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere, who started the new taxpayers' group, said Contra Costa's is one of the most effective in the state and is being used as a model for Marin's fledgling organization.

The Marin association, which includes representatives from 35 homeowners' associations, started earlier this year following sharp increases in assessed valuation and higher taxes.

Its major goals are to watchdog and analyze government spending and recommend ways of reducing local governments' reliance on the property tax.

lichman and four other former Nixon aides. He added that Frates' claim that Nixon could provide a deposition in a "relatively few hours" also was unrealistic.

Sirica said that if the two sides agreed to such a proposal he would ask them to waive any challenges of prejudicial publicity.

A panel of three medical specialists reported to the court Friday that Nixon would be able to make a deposition at his home in California under doctor's care no sooner than Jan. 6. And even then, it said, he would have to be confined to two daily one-hour sessions with a lot of rest between them.

Nixon has been hospitalized with recurring phlebitis twice since he resigned the presidency Aug. 9. He now is resting at his estate in San Clemente.

Some Washington attorneys have speculated that Frates might use the former president's inability to testify as the basis for an appeal.

Co-defendant H.R. Haldeman, Nixon's former White House chief of staff, testified later in the morning about the fast-moving developments in late March and April 1973 as the White House mapped strategy to cope with the Watergate crisis.

He said he joined Nixon in Key Biscayne, Fla. during the weekend of March 22 and spent most of his time trying to pull facts together for the President.

"When I arrived, President Nixon obviously had been giving thought to the Watergate matter," Haldeman said. "He had a number of notes on a long yellow pad and there was a very long discussion about specifics."

At Nixon's direction, he said, he spent most of Saturday, March 23, calling the Watergate principals either to check specific facts or to discuss strategy concerning the upcoming Watergate hearings and the grand jury investigation.

"There were a series of positions taken and abandoned as new positions were taken," he recalled.

When White House counsel John W. Dean III failed in an assignment to write a complete Watergate report, Haldeman said, Nixon on March 30 assigned Ehrlichman to the task of "pulling together all available information on the Watergate matter."

Ehrlichman met with Nixon from time to time during the next two weeks, he said, and provided a full report at a meeting with the President attended by Haldeman on April 14.

Prison officials said Burgess is survived by his father and a sister.

DANCER AND FAN — Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., with stripper Fanne Foxe at his side, talked to newsmen last night outside the dancer's dressing room at the Pilgrim Theater in Boston. The stripper, better known as Mrs. Annabel Battistella, who was with Mills during the Tidal Basin incident in Washington in October, was promised a movie career by the congressman. (UPI Telephoto)

Homage Is Paid To Sir Winston

LONDON (UPI) — The bombers roared in from the North Sea in the summer of 1940, pounding relentlessly at Britain's crumbling morale.

London — splintered and shattered — lay at Winston Churchill's feet. He poked the piles of rubble by day with his tightly held cane.

Then he spoke to his people.

"We shall never flag or fail..." he told England on June 4, 1940. "We shall defend our island, whatever the cost may be. We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills. We shall never surrender..."

Churchill, dour-faced and stiffened by the endless waves of German bombers, seized England at its darkest hours and shoved it into greatness.

"I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat," he told the House of Commons as war swept over the British Isles. "You ask —what is our policy? I will say —it is to wage war, by sea, land and air, with all our might and with all the strength that God can give us; to wage war against a monstrous tyranny never surpassed in the dark, lamentable catalogue of human crime...You ask —what is our aim? I can answer in one word — victory..."

Wreaths this weekend lay piled at the nine-foot statue of the tenacious prime minister in the square opposite parliament where his eloquence rallied England against the German threat.

Churchill postage stamps went on sale at $13.20 per set, and medallions at $19.20. Busts of Churchill's bulldog face sold for $71 and full sets of fine bone Churchill dinner services were priced at $4,200.

Born Nov. 30, 1874, Churchill, at the age of 65, took the reins of government in 1940, when England faced the Nazi war machine alone.

"...And now it has come to us to stand alone in the breach and face the worst that the tyrant's might and enmity can do," he said after the fall of France. "Bearing ourselves humbly before God, but conscious that we serve an unfolding purpose, we are ready to defend our native land..."

In the United States, a Churchill documentary, narrated by Orson Welles, was presented on public television this week, while NBC broadcast a dramatization of his life called "The Gathering Storm," with Richard Burton. The program also was aired on the BBC yesterday.

Burton, however, startled England by referring to the former prime minister as a "coward." The actor, in an article written for the New York Times, listed Churchill among "history's great killers," and said he hated Churchill and all his kind.

Not surprisingly, the remarks drew stinging criticism.

"Mr. Burton acted in an unprofessional way," said Shaun Sutton, who supervises the BBC's drama programs. "As far as I'm concerned, he will never work for us again."

Opposition leader Edward Heath told a memorial dinner Friday that Churchill was a great performer on the world stage "and an infinitely greater performer, by the way, than the actor who recently had the honor of portraying him."

Churchill's daughter, Mary, said she was "furiously angry and distressed" by Burton's remarks.

Mills Says He's Going To Make Stripper Friend A Movie Star

BOSTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., visited his friend Fanne Foxe at the night club where she strips during the weekend. He appeared on stage with her Saturday night, and yesterday told reporters he was going to make her a movie star.

Miss Foxe, known as the "Washington Tidal Basin Bombshell," led Mills to the stage of the Pilgrim Theater Saturday night and introduced him to the audience.

Mills returned to the burlesque house last night and said: "I'm going to make a movie star out of her. She's better than Gypsy Rose Lee."

What kind of movies will she appear in?

Mills responded, "It ain't burlesque."

He said he has even written the script for the movie. Asked what the title to the film is, Mills said again, "It ain't burlesque."

He said Miss Foxe is "about the 14th or 15th girl I've launched, and they've all been successful."

Miss Foxe, formerly a star at the Silver Slipper club in the Washington, D.C., area, was involved in a highly publicized, pre-election incident involving Mills. She ended up in the Washington Tidal Basin water after running from a car in which Mills was riding.

The Pilgrim management assured newspeople early in the afternoon that Mills had accompanied Miss Foxe and her ex-husband, Eduardo Battistela, from their hotel to the theater and then boarded a flight to Washington. However, Mills was subsequently discovered in the stripper's dressing room, again, with Battistella.

Mills, wearing sunglasses, emerged from Miss Foxe's dressing rooms with her and her husband.

Though he initially said he had no comment, when prompted by reporters he did answer some questions.

"This is my protege," he said of Miss Foxe, who stood by his side.

A photographer asked Mills if he would kiss the lady on the cheek. "Oh, hell I don't do that to her," Mills said. Miss Foxe laughed.

Mills said he thinks the public "should react very well, very favorably" to the idea that he is involved with a stripper.

When asked how his wife felt about his dealings with a stripper, Mills said she was well aware of the situation and condoned it.

Tiny Tim's Wife Is On Welfare

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Singer Tiny Tim's estranged wife, "Miss Vicki," has been on the New Jersey welfare rolls since August, the Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin says.

The newspaper quoted a Camden County welfare office employee as saying "Miss Vicki," whose maiden name is Victoria Budinger, has received $235 a month since Aug. 28. She reportedly is now in England with the couple's 3-year-old daughter, Tulip.

She and Tiny Tim were married in 1969 on Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show before a television audience of 45 million and were separated last January. Tiny Tim's road manager, Jim Cappy, said he doubted Miss Vicki was on welfare. "Tiny is sending her money," Cappy said. "He sends her enough money for the baby every month."

Treasure Said Found In Park

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A gold rush at Elysian Park? The board of recreation and parks commissioners hopes not.

The commissioners recently turned down a request for an excavation permit by Ben Frances, who said he has located "pirate treasure" in an unspecified area of the park through research in history books.

Others have dug for buried treasure in the park, which surrounds Dodger Stadium, but to no avail. The commissioners said the practice simply ruins the landscape.

Automakers Closing Out The Year On Grim Note

DETROIT (UPI) — U.S. automakers had little to be optimistic about today as they began the final month of 1974 with 18 assembly plants closed, 175,000 workers idled and a record 83-day supply of cars jamming storage lots.

Industry observers predicted even more layoffs, including thousands of salaried workers, after Jan. 1.

Fewer than 300,000 cars will be built in December to finish the year with output just above 7 million. It is the lowest in 12 years with the exception of 1970 when General Motors was struck for 67 days, and 27 per cent off last year's record production of 9.7 million cars.

More than 215,00 U.S. and Canadian workers will be on short and long-term furloughs by the time the industry closes for the Christmas-New Year's holiday. About 112,000 are assured of being on indefinite layoffs by the end of January — including many who have been laid off since last January.

Up to 115,000 workers were idled indefinitely last winter when sales fell drastically because of the Arab oil embargo. Industry analysts say that figure will be topped before the end of the current slowdown.

The small and large firms that rely on the auto industry also are beginning to feel the pinch. Dana Corp. last week idled 500 workers at its Ecorse, Mich. frame plant, making a total of 1,000 workers who will be idled by Dana in the Detroit area by Jan. 6.

The industry now has 1.7 million unsold new cars, with Chrysler Corp. leading with a 127-day supply. Chrysler closed five of its six U.S. plants a day before Thanksgiving and won't reopen them until Jan. 6.

General Motors also has five plants closed because of a 71-day supply of cars, and Ford shut eight, including five that build trucks, because of an 84-day supply. Only American Motors operated normally this week.

Doctor Claims Americans Have Trouble Coping

BERKELEY (UPI) — Americans are having more touble than usual coping with their personal problems because the old standbys of family, church, and government are not as important to people as they used to be, a California psychiatrist reported yesterday.

Dr. David Abrahams, director of the psychiatric program at Herrick Hospital, said that while every age sees itself as unique, "I think this is probably the most stressful time that western civilization has lived through."

"Personal stresses from marriage, family, or income are interspersed with outside stresses, such as competitiveness in business, pollution, overcrowding, the fast pace of modern living," he said.

"Together, they are causing people more stress and, in turn, more anxiety and depression."

Oil Talks Might Go Much Deeper

By ELIZABETH POND
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

MOSCOW — The current Barents Sea talks, in which oil under the Arctic is at stake, kick off what promises to be a full diplomatic season between Norway and the Soviet Union.

The issue in the Barents Sea negotiations is the border line on the continental shelf stretching up to the North Pole. It has acquired urgency with the discovery in recent years that the area is potentially rich in oil and other mineral deposits.

At the moment the matter is more urgent for Moscow than for Oslo. The Soviet Union — which has not possessed the technology for offshore exploration before this — appears eager to get on with prospecting. It now reportedly has feelers out to acquire West German, British, and Dutch offshore drilling equipment.

For its part, Norway — which is trying to hold down the speed of its North Sea oil development in any case — is content to postpone any Barents Sea drilling for as long as it takes to get a satisfactory division of rights.

The current meeting is the second session of the continental shelf talks that began in 1970. This round of five or ten days is not expected to do much more than set forth the basic positions of the two sides. Norway wants a midline division that is the one most commonly practiced in international law. This would draw a jagged line along the midpoints between the various Norwegian and Soviet islands.

It is not yet known whether the Soviet Union will ask for a sector median or a midline median modified by "special circumstances," as specified in the 1958 Geneva Law of the Sea convention. A sector division — with a straight line drawn to the North Pole from the continental border between Norway and the Soviet Union — would give Moscow about 150,000 square kilometers more than a midline division.

"Special circumstances" that the Soviets could argue might include use of the far-northern Spitzbergen Islands and security considerations.

The Soviet Union is the only great power signatory of the 1920 award of Spitzbergen to Norway to use its right of access to the islands. The Soviets have mined coal there since the 1930's and maintain a mining population of several thousand there, outnumbering the Norwegian population.

Two months ago, according to informed sources, Moscow asked Oslo for a review of the status of Spitzbergen, with an eye to sharing Norwegian sovereignty with the Soviet Union. Norway refused to discuss the issue. At the time the foreign ministry denied a flurry of press reports alleging Soviet pressure on Norway to demilitarize its northern border region.

In the area of security the Soviet Union has a major naval base for its Atlantic fleet in Murmansk, as well as airfields and army bases on the Kola peninsula. Soviet submarines and surface ships cross the Barents Sea to get to the Atlantic.

Moscow has not openly rattled its sabers across Norway's very lightly defended northern border since the 1950's. But it does carry out frequent amphibious arctic landing exercises and other military maneuvers in the area that are a pointed reminder to Norway of Soviet military might.

Other pending issues include fisheries limits and Moscow's revival of a proposal for a nuclear-free Scandinavia.

In the fisheries issue the Soviet fisheries minister will go to Oslo early next month for talks. Norway has announced its intention to ban trawl fishing on Jan. 1 in areas more than double its 12-mile territorial limit.

It also intends to extend its territorial waters to 50 miles as soon as possible in the new year. These moves will shut out British and German as well as Soviet fishermen from very rich fishing grounds.

A nuclear-free "Northern Europe" has become an issue again since the October visit of Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny to Helsinki in October. There Podgorny for the first time offered the Soviet Union and other nuclear powers as guarantors of such a zone.

Despite the name of "Northern Europe," the proposal refers only to Scandinavia, not to the Soviet Union. Soviet armaments on the Kola Peninsula would not be included.

Scandinavians are puzzled by the Soviet revival of the proposal at this time — especially as none of the Scandinavian countries has nuclear weapons on its territory anyway. Finland and Sweden are neutral, and Norway and Denmark — even though they are members of NATO — have a nonnuclear policy.

Some observers therefore wonder if the proposal is aimed at a "Finlandization" of the other Scandinavian countries: to foreclose their options in the future and bring them within Moscow's sphere of influence.

Stokes Flayed In Kopp Report

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) A San Francisco supervisor thinks the nation's public transit systems could be headed for trouble because former Bay Area Rapid Transit general manager B. R. Stokes has become chief of the American Public Transit Association.

Supervisor Quentin Kopp, a BART director for 22 months, issued a final report today in which he criticized Stokes, who became the industry's chief spokesman in Washington, D.C., five months ago.

Kopp's tenure on the board ended last week.

"I hope his style of management and methods of operation do not affect the manner in which mass public transit throughout the country is administered," Kopp said.

Butz To Remain In Job, He Says

EARL L. BUTZ
To stay for 1975

CHICAGO (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said yesterday he intends to remain in his job next year despite demands for his resignation, but does not plan to remain for the full two years left in President Ford's term.

"If you want to know do I intend to be here in 1975 —I intend to be," he said at a news conference.

However, Butz, wto began his Cabinet service three years ago, told a reporter after the news conference he does not plan to remain for the full two years left in Ford's term.

Butz also predicted consumers will be paying relatively high prices for sugar for another year or so despite a recent decline in raw sugar prices.

Butz said the slide in raw sugar prices which began about a week ago, will continue for a while and the drop is "bound to show up at the consumer level some time."

But this slide —caused by consumers buying less and turning to substitutes —will not erase all of the dramatic price increases of the past year, Butz warned.

"It will never get back to where it was until we get more production, and it may never get all the way back because production costs are higher," he said.

During the news conference, Butz dismissed as "a closed incident now" the furor over his repetition of a dialect joke about Pope Paul's stand on birth control. The joke brought demands for his resignation or a public apology, which President Ford ordered Butz to make.

The secretary said he doubted the incident would make him abandon his well known habit of telling jokes.

"I've got a keen sense of humor, and it's hard to curtail it," he said.

He also dismissed a published report that he, along with several other holdover Nixon Cabinet members, would soon leave President Ford's cabinet, saying the report was "manufactured out of whole cloth."

The agriculture secretary met with newsmen after an address to the National 4-H Club Congress. Last night, he was honored by having his picture hung in the Agricultural Hall of Fame in the Stockyards Inn at the site of Chicago's old massive stockyards.

Biochemist Says Sucrose Is Hazardous To Health

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — A University of Wisconsin biochemist says staples such as salt and sugar, especially sucrose, are more hazardous to human health than food additivies or even natural food poisons caused by bacteria.

"All material things in the universe are made exclusively of chemicals, including foods, and all chemicals are toxic in the wrong amount," said Biochemist F. M. Strong.

"What's important is whether the chemical is hazardous in the amount actually consumed," he said.

Strong said he thought additives were being unduly criticized, despite the fact they must meet strict standards. He said food staples like sugar and salt should also meet strictly controlled standards.

"The hazard from sucrose outweighs that from any other substance," Strong said. He said sucrose, cane or beet sugar, was the major cause of dental problems among more than 95 per cent of the U.S. population.

Three to five times the amount of common table salt habitually consumed by many persons produces severe hypertension, Strong said.

Strong said other dietary factors such as saturated fats, cholesterol, and 50 to 45 per cent of food calories in the form of fat are associated with heart disease.

"While natural food toxicants have caused widespread human suffering, in most cases today, we know how to guard against them." said Strong, adding this was not true of staples.

STREET SCENE — Most of yesterday morning around Boone, N.C., was spent moving cars that were abandoned in 15 inches of snow that hit the mountains of northwest North Carolina over the weekend. The scene was similar in many other parts of the nation.

More Snow Strands Motorists

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A second day of snow, fierce winds and driving rain lashed the nation today following stormy weather that snarled highways, stranded motorists and left many homeless.

More than 15 inches of snow smothered southeastern Michigan, and 13 inches of snow clogged Ohio. National guardsmen helped stranded motorists free from snow packed roads.

The storm, extending from southern Michigan into the Appalachians, forced cancellation of professional hockey games in Detroit and Cleveland and the closing of airports for several hours in both cities. Many Michigan and Ohio schools were closed today.

Ohio and Michigan police urged motorists to stay off highways between the two states.

"People trying to enter Michigan are being stranded in their cars or put up in farmhouses and schools," Lt. David Furiate, of the Ohio Turnpike Patrol, said. "We are urging them to get off at the nearest exit and seek their own accommodations."

Sixty mile-an-hour winds canceled several flights from National Airport outside the Washington, D.C., area and knocked out power in some areas.

Gale force winds battered the Atlantic Coast, triggering flooding and beach erosion. Rains prompted flash flood warning for the Virginias and Maryland.

A Delaware National Guard unit helped evacuate beachfront homes flooded by two to four feet of water. Temporary shelters were set up in fire stations and the Smyrna National Guard armory.

Almost one foot of snow hit southeastern Iowa, causing the death of at least six persons traveling on slick highways.

Republican Who Didn't Back Nixon On Issues Gets Post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., criticized by conservative GOP congressmen for failing to support the Nixon administration on most issues, turned back strong opposition today and won reelection as the chairman of the House Republican Conference.

Wiggins, a staunch supporter of Richard M. Nixon on the House Judiciary Committee, represented the GOP conservatives.

The House Democratic caucus, including 75 new members and 216 holdovers, also met today to choose their leadership for the new session of Congress — which begins Jan. 14.

The election for GOP conference chairman — the counterpart of the Democratic caucus chairman — was the first order of business in a meeting of the 144 Republicans who will comprise next year's minority in the House. The Republicans also were to elect a minority leader and a whip.

The Senate plans to do its organizing as usual after the new Congress convenes. Only House incumbents and new members can participate — retiring or defeated members are barred.

Speaker Carl Albert and Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill are expected to be renominated. There may be a move to make the whip's job — now appointed by the majority leader — an elective one, but so far Rep. John McFall of California has no opposition.

The Democrats have only one crucial election — caucus chairman — between two Californians, liberal Philip Burton and moderate B. F. Sisk, who are seeking the seat vacated by Rep. Olin Teague of Texas.

House GOP leader John Rhodes of Arizona is expected to win easy re-election, despite an abortive movement by Rep. Peter Peyser, R-N.Y., to replace him. For whip, the Republicans will choose among Reps. Robert Michel, Ill.; Paul Findley, Ill.; John Erlenborn, Ill.; Jerry Pettis, Calif.; and John Wydler, N.Y.

The executive committee of the Democratic Study Group, a private organization of about 150 moderate to liberal House Democrats, invited new Democrats to a reception yesterday to urge support of a series of reform proposals to be put to today's caucus:

Take committee assignment power away from the Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee, who have traditionally had it, and give it to the Democratic Steering committee, a 21-member group of leaders.

Enlarge Ways and Means, the tax-writing panel, from its present 25 members to at least 37. Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., supports enlargement to 31 members.

Require that all recorded votes in closed-door caucus sessions be made public.

Restore proxy voting in committees.

Provide a voting procedure for open meetings of House and Senate conferees, who write compromise versions of differing bills passed by their respective bodies.

Housing Board To Hear Reports

Marin County Housing Authority directors will hear reports on the authority's staffing and routine budget items in their regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the authority offices at 47 Paul Drive, San Rafael.

Paul E. Nixon, acting executive director, said he will explain the organization's staffing pattern and duties in response to a request last month from several new board members.

Nixon also will report on a metting scheduled for today with the San Francisco office of the federal Housing and Urban Development department, reviewing the 1975 budget approved last month by the authority board.

Robber Forces Victim In Trunk

MORRO BAY (UPI) — Mildred Pratt, 56, Morro Bay, was forced to spend nine hours in the trunk of her car from midnight Saturday after she was robbed by a man carrying a shotgun, police said today.

The woman told officers she was accosted by a man who wore a stocking over his face, as she left work late Saturday at a San Luis Obispo restaurant.

She said the man forced her to drive to a lonely stretch of beach near Pirates Cove where he took her purse and made her get into the trunk of her car.

A man and a woman walking along the beach heard her cries and released her about 9 a.m. Sunday, police said.

Ford Still Is Opposed To Controls

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Ford says he may take additional action to bolster the sagging economy, but has ruled out wage and price controls, it was reported yesterday.

In an interview in Newsweek magazine, Ford also said he would not try to impose a gasoline tax to save energy. And he blamed congressional foot-dragging for many of the nation's energy problems.

The economy has been deteriorating rapidly since early October, the President said, and if unemployment hits 6.5 per cent, his economic aides are "prepared for alternatives."

"The jump to 6 (per cent) was a signal," Ford told Newsweek. "I would say 6.5 per cent would be indicative of a very serious added deterioration."

He said his top economic advisers are "prepared for alternatives in case this deterioration continues. We probably have another month or so at the most before we would have to make any major changes."

While he did not specify what those changes might be, he said, "I just do not see the need for wage and price controls."

On energy, the President said he wanted to see if his administration's voluntary program of reducing consumption by 1 million barrels a day is workable. If it is not, he said, he would "not hesitate to implement" a mandatory allocation program.

But asked about a gasoline tax, he said, "I don't foresee that as a possiblity." He added that a such a tax would meet "vigorous opposition" on Capitol Hill.

In fact, Ford said, much of the problem in dealing with the energy shortage is congressional inaction on bills both he and former President Richard Nixon have submitted.

"The scorecard is really minor league on passing bills related to energy," he said.

Adviser Named

NORWICH, England (AP) — An adviser on science has been appointed by the Bishop of Norwich, the Right Rev. Maurice Wood. The man for the job is a clergyman who is a former executive of the British Medical Assn., the Rev. Dr. Walter Hedgcock.

Udall Sees Need Of Gas Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Morris K. Udall, the only declared Democratic candidate for the 1976 presidential nomination, says higher gasoline taxes and up to a 10 per cent reduction in defense spending may be needed to conserve energy and fight inflation.

The administration's program to promote voluntary energy conservation isn't working, the Arizonan said, and "I don't even flinch back from the gas tax ... if it is part of an overall program to conserve energy and save the dollar and get the economy back on track, if you can do it so that it doesn't hurt the little guy."

Revenues from a gasoline tax of "10 or 20 cents" per gallon could be used "to lower the payroll tax," he said.

Udall said "fat and waste" in the defense budget would be a likely target of Congress when it considers President Ford's call for budget reductions, since "cuts in human needs" appeared unlikely.

"I have seen studies by reputable people that suggest that you can keep a lean, tough, adequate military defense and an adequate national security and cut in the range of 10 per cent," he said.

Udall was interviewed yesterday on ABC-TV's Issues and Answers.

Udall predicted the Democrats in 1976 will have their first multiple-ballot convention since John F. Kennedy won the nomination in 1960.

"Under our new party rules, with proportional representation, with the strength Gov. (George) Wallace has, the strength of some of the others in the race, it is obvious to me no one is going to have 51 per cent of those delegates when we get to the convention," he said.

Udall said his plan is to run a nationwide campaign, building on strength in the Rocky Mountain states by entering various state primaries and campaigning in other key states.

Ford, Trudeau Plan To Exchange Views

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and President Gerald Ford will meet for the first time Wednesday to exchange views and improve understanding between the neighboring countries.

Canadian officials said that since the two leaders had never met, the afternoon work session and evening White House dinner were considered primarily an opportunity for the two leaders to exchange views on a number of bilateral and international topics, including such touchy subjects as beef and oil exports.

One government official said Trudeau wanted to clarify Canadian policies affecting the United States and "what we want to be able to do is identify the area where, at the presidential level, there may be some misunderstandings."

One illustration of the need for understanding at the top could be the current beef conflict, initiated Aug. 12 when Canada imposed a quota on all foreign beef imports. President Ford retaliated Nov. 16 by placing quotas on beef and pork imports from Canada.

Other bilateral matters which could be dealt with in a general way include oil and pipelines.

Canada announced Nov. 22. it would protect its dwindling oil reserves by cutting exports to the United States by 100,000 barrels a day beginning Jan. 1 and possibly halt all exports within 10 years.

There also has been friction over Canada's oil pricing system which freezes domestic oil prices at $6.50 a barrel but levies an export tax raising the cost to U.S. purchasers to $11.75 a barrel.

This prompted Sen. William E. Brock (I) R-Tenn., to suggest that the United States impose a pipeline transit tax on Canadian oil carried through American pipeline systems to offset Canada's export tax on crude oil.

New Jersey Professors End Strike

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Striking professors at eight New Jersey state colleges today ended a two-week walkout pending mediation of their demand for a cost of living pay increase.

Paula Moore, a spokeswoman for Trenton State College, said teachers at the campus had returned to their classrooms as promised by Marcoantonio Lacatena, president of the New Jersey Council of State College Locals, which represents 2,600 professors. "There were no pickets today and I assume everybody is where they belong," Miss Moore said.

The strike by teachers at Ramapo, Montclair, William Paterson, Jersey City, Kean, Trenton, Stockton and Glassboro State Colleges had affected some 60,000 students.

Lacatena said mediation with the state Department of Higher Education would begin "early this week" under the direction of a representative from a National Mediation Service.

Lacatena said a second walkout by the teachers "is always a possibility" if mediation does not produce a settlement agreeable to the teachers.

An end to the strike was announced last Thursday after Gov. Brendan T. Byrne agreed to appoint a mediator and begin contract talks with the teachers for a cost-of-living pay increase, provided the teachers returned to work.

Schmidt Called 'Patronizing Hun'

LONDON (UPI) — A member of Parliament yesterday called West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt a "patronizing hun."

John Ryman, member of a Labor party group campaigning to remove Britain from the European Common Market, called Schmidt's address to the party's annual conference in London "an impertinence" and asked: "Why should this patronizing hun be allowed to lecture the great British Labor party?"

Schmidt told the party rank-and-file that European Socialists wanted Britain to remain inside the trading bloc, and urged them to weigh the issue carefully.

Soviet Spaceship Is Orbited In Test Run For Joint Flight

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union orbited a two-man spaceship today on a dry run for next year's U.S.-Soviet joint flight. The veteran cosmonauts said they might talk to American ground controllers in Houston in what would be a space first.

The Tass news agency said the Soyuz 16 spaceship blasted off from the Baikonur launch site in Kazakhstan at 12.40 p.m. (4:40 a.m.EST) carrying commander Anatoly Filipchenko and engineer Nikolai Rukavishnikov, both of whom have flown Soyuz expeditions in the past.

After the spaceship went into orbit, Tass said the cosmonauts were well and carrying out their program and that communications were stable.

In a preflight interview, Filipchenko said the flight would last "several days."

"We are going to rehearse all the operations which are to be carried out in 1975" when a Soyuz spaceship and an American Apollo are scheduled to attempt a docking in space, he said.

"In principle, there may be discussions with Houston," Filipchenko said.

An American space expert in Moscow said he believed it would be the first time Soviet cosmonauts have spoken from space with American ground controllers.

"The main aim of our mission is to test the new docking gear," Rukavishnikov said. "This unit has been installed on Soviet and American spacecraft for the first time."

Filipchenko said the Soyuz and Apollo craft would have basically the same docking gear but with their own modifications.

Filipchenko and Rukavishnikov are the understudies for Alexei A. Leonov and Valery N. Kubasov, who have been named to fly the July mission.

Soyuz 16 is identical with the craft that will undertake the joint project and will fly its exact orbit, rehearsing all the procedures to be undertaken

Americans Are Tracking The Flight Of Soyuz 16

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine American tracking stations followed the flight of Russia's Soyuz 16 spaceship today in a rehearsal for next July's joint flight with an American Apollo.

Soviet space officials kept their American counterparts informed of the progress of the mission and promised to give NASA precise directions to track the Soyuz between its 41st and 56th orbits on Wednesday.

Glynn Lunney, the American project manager for the dual flight, received a telephone call in Houston at 5:45 a.m. EST and was told by V. Timchenko that the flight of cosmonauts Anatoly Filipchenko and Nikolai Rukavishnikov was going smoothly.

Timchenko, leader of one of the joint working groups for the joint project, promised another call about 4 a.m. EST tomorrow, after the Soyuz is scheduled to maneuver into a 140-mile high circular orbit. That is the altitude at which the Apollo will rendezvous and dock with a Soyuz July 17.

A space agency spokesman said the nine American stations following the flight of Soyuz 16 by radar include two NASA stations and seven operated by the Defense Department.

The spokesman said the Russians followed a NASA request and did not notify the agency in advance of the launch. NASA earlier had advised the Soviets it did not want to be informed in advance of Russian launch plans unless the information could be made public.

The Soyuz that will meet the Apollo in orbit next summer is scheduled to stay aloft five days, 22 hours and 30 minutes. The orbital meeting will occur two days, three hours and 55 minutes after the Soyuz launch and the two ships will remain linked for about 44 hours.

The United States does not plan a rehearsal of its part in the mission because the Apollo command ship design is a proven veteran of moon landing missions and earth orbital Skylab space station flights.

Early Californian

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Recent diggings at Calico, in San Bernardino County, indicates possible existence of man in California as early as 50,000 years ago.

Antitheft Campaign Expanding

The Petaluma Police Department's antiburglary campaign, Operation Identification, will be expanded into more of the city's neighborhood's next Saturday in an effort to thwart one of suburban America's most common crimes.

Reserve police officers will travel door to door with special marking tools and offer residents a chance to engrave their driver's license or Social Security number on valuables popular with burglars including television sets, guns, and stereo equipment.

Police Chief Larry D. Higgins said the procedure discourages burglars because it makes the property traceable and difficult to sell.

Officers also will distribute stickers which homeowners can place on windows or doors stating their property is marked.

The door-to-door campaign is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Daniel and Crinella drives, Robin Way and Tamar Lane, and the 1400 and 1500 blocks of Pheasant Drive, Meadowlark and Tanager lanes.

Residents not at home next Saturday may contact the police department and arrange to use the engraver, at no charge, some other time, Higgins said.

Police Arrest Man As Theft Suspect

A 25-year-old San Francisco man was arrested Saturday by San Francisco police in connection with the burglary of a San Anselmo home.

Gary Allen Myers was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

San Anselmo police said they obtained a warrant for his arrest last Nov. 12 following the burglary of the Greenfield Avenue home of his brother, Ronald D. Myers.

Police said Ronald Myers' wife, Carol, spotted Gary A. Myers in the family home holding a television set on Nov. 12, and after ordering him from the house discovered $430 worth of personal possessions were missing.

Many States Are Solidly In Black

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Many of America's state governments are rolling in money — enough to pay off two-thirds of this year's federal deficit.

Officials in state after state, a UPI survey shows, estimate they will wind up their fiscal year with healthy surpluses. There are a few sharp exceptions.

More than 40 states are in the black, with surpluses totaling $4.1 billion. California and Texas account for almost half. By comparison, the federal deficit is $6.3 billion.

But it does not mean that state taxes are coming down. Newly elected politicians already have plans to spend the surpluses, already being eroded by inflation and recession.

Texas leads the nation. Its projected budget surplus is $1.5 billion. It comes from higher than anticipated income from sales taxes, as well as the soaring price of gas and oil.

California's "cut, squeeze and trim" $500 million surplus is outgoing Gov. Ronald Reagan's pride and joy. The surplus last year was $800 million, but Reagan and the legislature temporarily cut the sales tax by 1 per cent and granted an income tax rebate.

Some other states are not so fortunate.

New Jersey, with no state income tax and a sales tax hard hit by recession, faces a deficit next year which officials estimate at anywhere from $240 million to $1 billion.

Massachusetts could have a deficit as high as $316 million because of declining revenues. Connecticut, Vermont and Maine also face possible deficits.

Rhode Island and New Hampshire will have to strain to keep their budgets in balance.

In Virginia, a drop in corporate and individual taxes may put the state more than $16 million in the red next year.

Many states reflect a surplus for a simple reason: They are forbidden by law to operate in the red.

In Indiana, State Budget Director Edison Thuma said his state has a projected $139.8 million surplus "because it is unconstitutional to run a deficit, and impossible to run a competent government on a zero balance."

Other states which don't reflect a budget surplus have nest eggs set aside to help cushion hard times.

Alaska, for example, received nearly $1 billion in oil lease sales in 1969. Since then the state has been spending both the interest and some of the principal, trying to catch up on badly needed services it could not afford before.

States with surpluses are fighting to keep them. Illinois, which had a $300 million surplus this year, faces soaring welfare costs that could cut it to $100 million.

New York officials say the state's surplus will run about $20 million next spring, because of higher than estimated revenues from income and sales taxes caused by inflation. But officials say any surplus will be eaten away by rising costs.

Michigan had a $208.3 million surplus this year, but most of that is melting away because of property and income tax credits. On Nov. 5, voters also repealed the state sales tax on food and prescription drugs.

Many other states' budget surpluses reflect generally healthy economies. Colorado, Pennsylvania, Idaho, Mississippi, Hawaii, Arkansas, Iowa, Nevada, Kansas, Louisiana, South Dakota, North Carolina, Nebraska, South Carolina, West Virginia, Alabama, Kentucky, Wyoming, Georgia, Minnesota, New Mexico, Missouri, Montana, North Dakota, Oregon and Arizona were reported in the black and with hopes of staying there.

Other states, such as Washington, Florida, Utah, Delaware, Ohio, Maryland, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, either had slight surpluses or none at all and face a tough fight to find budget-balancing incomes.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Market Shares Not Interesting

By DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. A friend has advised me to invest in Star Supermarkets (ASE) because it is selling at a very low P/E ratio. Would this be a good investment for supplementing my retirement income? J.H.

A. Shares of this regional retailer have been trading in a very narrow range for the past two years. In fact, the spread between high and low has been less than four points on low trading volume reflecting market apathy to the issue. Operating results have been more than satisfactory, however, since the industrywide squeeze in 1972. Although the company plans to adopt LIFO accounting this year, reducing 9-month results to $1.56 a share from $2.37 previously reported, adjusted earnings were still 40 per cent ahead year to year. Based on a revised estimate of $2.20 a share for 1974 net, the shares are trading at a low 4x multiple.

The company has increased its annual dividend payment to 68 from 60 a share starting this month, and in January will pay a 10 per cent stock dividend. The shares yield 7.2 per cent currently on the increased dividend rate.

Q. Dayton Power & Light (NYSE) is offering 10 1/8 per cent bonds due in 1981 and 12.50 per cent preferred stock. Which would be the best investment for a senior citizen wanting to augment his retirement income? I have about $13,000 to invest. C.K.

A. Because the preferred is covered by a sinking fund requiring redemption of 5 per cent of the issue annually beginning in 1979, your capital would be returned in full in 25 years. Some portion of it might also be called for redemption after four years; whereas, with the bond, your capital would be repaid in seven years. The secured bond, which is protected from redemption until October, 1980, would precede the preferred stock in a bankruptcy. Should interest rates continue to slide, the preferred would probably command a higher premium than the bond, allowing a potentially greater capital gain.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

U.S. Was Founded As Protest Against Things Like Taxation

It's hard to believe, but this country was founded as a protest against taxation!

Judge Learned Hand is quoted as saying:

"In my own case the words of such an act as the Income Tax, for example, merely dance before my eyes in a meaningless procession; cross-reference to cross-reference, exception upon exception — couched in abstract terms that offer no handle to seize hold of — leave in my mind only a confused sense of some vitally important, but successfully concealed, purport, which it is my duty to extract, but which is within my power, if at all, only after the most inordinate expenditure of time. I know that these monsters are the result of fabulous industry and ingenuity, plugging up this hole and casting out that net, against all possible evasion; yet at times I cannot help recalling the saying of William James about certain passages of Hegel; that they were no doubt written with a passion of rationality; but that one cannot help wondering whether to the reader they have any significance save that the words are strung together with syntactical correctness." And — Albert Einstein in commenting on completing his own tax return: "This is too difficult for a mathematician. It takes a philosopher", and again:

"The hardest thing in the world to understand is the Income Tax." That's the purpose of these columns; to try and help you, in some small way, to understand some small parts of the income tax.

Watch for them in future issues of the I-J.

Coal Strike Depresses The Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — With uncertainty mounting over the outcome of a vote to end the nationwide coal strike, prices plunged today in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Bad weather was delaying voting by members of the United Mine Workers on a new contract. UMW officials have asked locals to keep the ballot boxes open at least through tomorrow. The nationwide strike, which has further crippled the nation's economy, was approaching the end of its third week.

Wall Street has grown nervous about the outcome of the voting. Many investors were fearful the new contract would be rejected, prolonging the strike and further damaging the economy.

Dow Chemicals lost 2, Monsanto 1⅛ and Dupont 1. A major brokerage recommended selling Dow Chemical stock recently.

NovatoGears For Rush Of Yule Season

Novato's downtown area is preparing for the Christmas season with Christmas wreaths and garlands, late store openings from Dec. 11, and a Nativity Scene at the corner of Diablo and South Novato Boulevards.

The Novato Chamber of Commerce, headed by Chairman Eugene Womack, recommended that stores stay open until 9 p.m. beginning Wednesday, Dec. 11.

On Dec. 21, Santa Claus is scheduled to make the rounds of the various shopping centers in Novato from 10 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. He will be riding in a Novato fire truck.

The Nativity scene is a joint venture of city forces and volunteers. The city will assist in erecting and dismantling the scene. Volunteer Mildred Nordstrom is making new garments for members of the Nativity Scene with fabric donated by Womack's Fabrics. Novato Valley 4-H will again take care of the animals.

Energy Crunch Didn't Hurt Redwood Empire

Despite the energy crunch that launched 1974, the Redwood Empire's tourist economy stayed healthy during the summer season.

A region-wide survey by the Redwood Empire Association has turned up more bright spots than soft spots, with several resort owners reporting business up 15 per cent or more, compared with 1973.

"We were fearful of the gas shortage until late March," said Don J. McFarland, executive of Steele Park at Lake Berryessa. "But from April through August volume was up as much as 30 per cent. It seemed as though families were spending entire vacations closer to home, not just holiday weekends."

Mr. and Mrs. Art Stadler, at Benbow Inn near Garberville, reported that after a period of "uncertainty" early in the year, "we enjoyed a fabulous spring, summer and fall — up at least 15 per cent — with many travelers from the East Coast and even Europe."

At Muir Woods Inn, owner Jack Schlette noted gross sales about 15 per cent higher, without significant price increases, in every month since March. Schlette estimated visitor counts at Muir Woods holding steady at the level of the past three years.

On the Mendocino Coast, the popular "Skunk" train suffered a fall-off, mainly due to floods which shut down passenger operations for all except 10 days from January through April. Passengers totaled 83,057 through September compared with 96,237 for the first nine months of 1973. But officials said "the summer traffic was as good as ever."

Real Estate Activity In Marin Reported Down By 30 Per Cent

Marin County's real estate industry is hurting, with activity about 30 per cent below normal, but the market should improve next spring in direct proportion to the hoped for decline in the prime rate.

That analysis, by Jeffory Morshead, owner of Frank Howard Allen & Co. Realtors, appears in the winter issue of his "Real Estate Newsletter." Morshead traces the fluctuations in the prime interest rate from 4.75 per cent in 1972 to a record high of 12 per cent from July through October this year.

"In three months (July-October, 1974) volume dropped in half from its all-time high to its lowest point in three years," says Morshead. "This drop has put many real estate connected businesses at break-even or below. Some title companies are reducing personnel expenses 20 per cent by putting staff people on a 32-hour week. Builders are having severe cash flow problems as unsold inventory soaks up monthly loan payments at 11 and 12 per cent . . ."

For the future, Morshead sees a definitely improving market. He noted that loan rates went down from 11 per cent in September to 10.5 per cent in mid-November and are apparently headed down.

"At a prime rate of 10 per cent, we see a good market and when it drops to 9 per cent we see a return to sellers' market conditions in 'moratoriumed' Marin County."

SOMETHING NEW ON THE HOOF

The owner of this creature, D.C. (Buffalo Bill) Basolo believes his new king of the range — the beefalo — will soon be providing juicy steaks at low prices for protein-seeking consumers. The cross between a cow and a buffalo, displayed recently in San Francisco, eats grass rather than expensive feed grain and reaches market maturity, about 1,000 pounds, in 10 months. "It's leaner, it's cheaper and it provides 18 to 20 per cent higher protein than regular beef cattle," the Tracy rancher said. (UPI Telephoto)

GOP Asked To Mount A Crusade

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Mary Louise Smith said today the GOP must "mount a crusade ... to generate a Republican reawakening" in the United States.

Mrs. Smith, appearing at the first major Republican gathering since the party took heavy losses in the 1974 elections, told the Republican Governors' Association that private surveys show "that we've let ourselves get railroaded into some false stereotypes."

"There's that old myth about us being the party of the rich," she said. "Some voters have the feeling that we've been negative, attacking when we should have been proposing new solutions."

She said the party — now behind both Democrats and independents in national polls of voter identification — has "obviously failed to get our message across."

"We must mount a crusade designed to generate a Republican reawakening among the good hardworking men and women who are disillusioned with government that has not lived up to their expectations."

The same theme ran throughout the opening speeches. Conference chairman Winfield Dunn, Tennessee's outgoing governor, opened the session by suggesting that one key lesson of the election was that "the voters intend to hold a party responsible for the actions of its leaders."

He said the disintegration of both parties "does exist as a possibility" unless the system is revitalized.

Governor-elect Robert Bennett of Kansas said he felt it was a mistake to speak of the Republican party as a "shambles," but advised his new colleagues that the road to victory in his state was found by recruiting college students and minorities as Republican campaigners.

He said collegians insisted on being more than "envelope lickers" and blacks and Chicanos would not accept "being brought along as window dressing."

A member of Mrs. Smith's national committee, Michigan Republican chairman William McLaughlin, offered the 18 incumbents and Republican governors-elect a similar analysis.

He told them at the opening of their two-day meeting that "we got clobbered" on Nov. 5 because the GOP has projected the image of a "country club" party that does not care to recruit women, blacks and young people.

New Lawmakers Occupy Offices

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Twenty-five new California state legislators were moving into state Capitol offices today as the 1975-76 California Legislature convened for a brief organizational session.

Formal ceremonies were scheduled under the golden dome of the state Capitol at noon to swear in those legislators elected Nov. 5.

Of the new legislators, 2 are freshman Democratic assemblymen; three are novice Republican assemblymen; and two are new Democratic senators. Two other new Democratic state senators have served the last decade as assemblymen.

Although a flood of proposed legislation is expected beginning today, the principal business of the session — limited by legislative rules to one week — is the election of officers and the naming of committees for the regular session beginning in January.

Since the Democrats are firmly in control of both the Senate and the Assembly, they are expected to retain all major leadership oosts. The 55-25 Democratic margin in the Assembly is the greatest in this century. The 25-14 Democratic edge in the Senate, with one vacancy, is the biggest in more than a decade.

But both Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy and Senate President pro tem James Mills could face challenges to their leadership from within their party.

Sen. George Zenovich, D-Fresno, announced in a letter to fellow senators in November that he would try to toppie Mills.

But Mills, a Democrat from San Diego, downplays the Zenovich challenge.

"He doesn't have a serious chance. If it came to a vote, I would expect to get well over 30," said Mills.

Zenovich has been out of the country for the last several weeks and was not available for comment.

McCarthy could be challenged by fellow San Francisco Democrat Willie Brown, whom McCarthy defeated in June for the top spot, or a Brown ally.

But this time, even Brown admits his chances don't look promising.

"I am not making a move until there is a clear will of the body that some change be made," said Brown.

Asked if he sensed the will for a change among the 80 assemblymen, Brown replied: "Not at the moment."

McCarthy is confident he would turn back any challenge.

"I have the votes. There are 55 Democrats and I have at least 40 of them," he said.

Those four major contenders for the leadership positions have poured out more than $60,000 this year to other Democratic candidates for the legislature, campaign documents show.

The campaign contributions — ranging up to $11,000 for one candidate — have become a method for a legislative leader or a contender for such a spot to help elect fellow lawmakers who will be sympathetic to their views.

Mills says he expects the Senate to work only one day, while McCarthy expects the Assembly to be in session for about three days.

Ceremony Suggested For Divorce

FRESNO (AP) — A ceremony to release each other from the marriage vows can go a long way towards easing the pain of a bitter divorce, a Methodist minister says.

And although Donald Fado has only performed two such ceremonies in his career, he views his unique idea as a valuable tool to ease the transition between marriage and life as an "ex-wife or husband."

"There needs to be some kind of therapeutic understanding of their new relationship," said Fado, who serves at the United Church Center here. "It's more a counseling situation than a religious ceremony, although the fact that I am a minister gives it religious connotation."

The ceremony is not formalized, and Fado says the different problems each couple faces would require a different approach in each case.

The divorce ceremony would provide a final realization that the marriage is over, Fado said. It would allow the couple to free themselves of guilt by releasing hostilities and expressing their honest feelings about the broken relationship.

"Underlying my concern as much as anything is that divorce is shoved under the carpet. The church paper prints the good things that happen, but we never mention divorce," he said. "Why hide it."

Fado feels the best time for a divorce ceremony would be after the fact. "When a person is at the point of a divorce, emotions are often too high to face the problem."

"I've talked to about 30 couples, and none of them said they would have participated at the time of their divorce," he added.

Fado condemns the mocking divorce announcements which read "I finally got rid of the bum," but says the idea of announcing the divorce serves a purpose for both the couple and their friends.

New Designs Sought For Windmills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is getting serious about the windmill as it pumps more money into the development of new designs for the ancient energy source.

For centuries of European and Asian civilization, windmills ground grain, drove ships and pumped water. Their importance declined with the discovery of oil and the invention of the steam engine. In this country they have been used on individual farms to pump water and drive electric generators.

Now, with world energy supplies growing scarcer and coast soaring, the windmill has acquired a new appeal as a clean, limitless source of power.

The National Science Foundation and National Aeronautics and Space Administration this week awarded $500,000 contracts to two industrial firms for preliminary design of very large wind energy systems. The contractors, General Electric Co. Space Division and Kaman Aerospace Corp., will examine modern versions of windmills at sizes that generate 100 kilowatts for use by small communities or farm cooperatives to 3 megawatts for possible connection into the power networks of large utility companies.

A 3 megawatt windmill would be the largest ever built. Its rotor blades would be about 200 feet in diameter and each windmill could produce enough electricity to supply 100 to 200 homes, NASA reported.

The foundation plans to invest $30 million in wind energy research projects in the next five years and already has invested nearly $1 million in construction of a 100 kilowatt windmill near Sandusky, Ohio.

The Ohio windmill, to be completed next July, will stand 160 feet tall and its 12-foot diameter blades are intended to catch the wind and convert it to enough power to run 10 homes.

That project and the newest studies are being managed for the foundation by NASA's Lewis Research Center, Cleveland.

Other wind energy projects sponsored by the foundation include research on the wind itself, methods of harnessing wind energy, small systems for remote areas, and the assessment of environmental, legal, social, economic and other issues regarding wind power.

The Atomic Energy Commission also announced this week that it is testing an egg-beater-shaped wind turbine whose 15-foot blades drive into the wind to generate electricity. A prototype has been mounted atop a building at the Sandia Laboratories in Albuquerque, N.M.

The AEC said this vertical axis turbine has the potential for wide use in the Great Plains and other places where the wind blows regularly with sufficient velocity.

CARACAS (UPI) — A popular spectator sport in Venezuela is "toros coleados," literally tailed bulls. It is similar to bulldogging in the United States, except the bull is pulled down by the tail by a cowboy on horseback.

San Quentin Inmate Suffers Stab Wounds

A San Quentin convict with a prisonmade knife stuck in his back walked up to a guard in a prison dining hall yesterday to report he had been attacked, the 76th stabbing victim at the prison this year.

Officials said Donald L. Barnes, 36, was reported in good condition today in the prison hospital. He received two stab wounds, one in the lower right back and one in the center, as he sat eating the evening meal about 4:15 p.m.

Two convicts were questioned as suspects yesterday, according to William D. Nyberg, prison information officer, but one was released while the other was still in custody.

No motive for the attack was known by officers, Nyberg said, and, as far as he knew, Barnes belonged to no prison gang.

Barnes was originally sent to prison in 1957 for robbery in San Bernardino. He escaped from the state prison at Chino in 1970, was recaptured and paroled two years later.

His parole was revoked in April 1973, and he has been at San Quentin since that time.

Marin Man Suspect In Santa Rosa Bank Holdup

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Marin man with a long arrest record was booked into Sonoma County Jail in Santa Rosa early Saturday on suspicion of being one of two men who held up a Santa Rosa bank officer Friday.

Stephen Joseph O'Brien, 25, was arrested at 47 Lyford Drive in Tiburon about 3 a.m. by police and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents but he gave 22 Oak Springs Drive, San Anselmo, as his address when booked into jail.

Frank Perrone, an FBI spokesman said a man in his mid-20s entered the Roseland office of the Exchange Bank in Santa Rosa at 12:40 p.m. Friday and handed the assistant manager a note demanding $5,000.

While the man did not display or simulate a weapon, Perrone said he told the bank officer that a companion was waiting outside the bank with a rifle.

When he was given the $5,000, the bandid tore up his note and fled, Perrone said.

Later that day, another branch of the bank, the Larkfield branch, also was held up by two bearded men with shotguns. It was unknown whether the two robberies were related, Perrone said, nor did he comment on what led to O'Brien's arrest.

O'Brien, being held in jail, was to appear in Santa Rosa Municipal Court today.

He has an arrest record dating back several years for a variety of matters, including assault, burglary, stolen property and drug charges.

O'Brien, his father, and three brothers are awaiting trial in Marin Superior Court on 16 counts of receiving stolen property.

Distraught Man Feared Span Leaper

A young Fairfax man distraught over striking a pedestrian with his car is believed to have leaped to his death from the Golden Gate Bridge, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Officers found a car owned by Glenn Douglas Campbell, 23, of 31 Spruce Road, abandoned in the west parking lot at the bridge at 3:45 p.m. Saturday.

Campbell, a kitchen worker at Marin General Hospital, was last seen when he left his job Thanksgiving. He did not show up at a relative's home where he was expected for dinner.

Officers said Campbell hit a pedestrian with his car Wednesday in Fairfax. Although the person was not seriously injured, Campbell was upset when he could not find a witness to tell him the accident was not his fault, friends told police. His body has not been recovered.

JUPITER IMAGES — A set of preliminary Jupiter images which have been computer rectified by scientists at the University of Arizona were received Nov. 24 when Pioneer 11 was still six million miles from the planet. North is at the top when the photo showing Jupiter's red spot is on the right. (UPI Telephoto)

Pioneer Nearing Deadly Radiation

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI) — The fate of Pioneer 11, an unmanned spacecraft entering Jupiter's intense radiation belt, will be decided tonight during 42 minutes when the spacecraft is out of communication with Earth.

During that period, Pioneer will hit 107,000 miles per hour at a point 26,000 miles from Jupiter's south pole. Then it will shoot up and away over the planet's north pole toward the ringed planet Saturn.

The 42 minutes of radio silence will occur when Pioneer is behind Jupiter, which is 1,300 times larger than Earth. The space agency will not know Pioneer's fate until it sends data, stored in its memory, upon emergence from Jupiter's shadow.

But arrival of the news will be delayed because it takes radio signals, moving at the speed of light, about 41 minutes to reach Earth.

The crucial message — containing a treasury of scientific riches gathered behind the planet — hopefully will arrive at 10:24 p.m. PST.

By then Pioneer will have been zapped by a radiation peak 10 times what it sister, Pioneer 10, endured last year with some instrument damage. However, the cumulative radiation dose for Pioneer 11 should be less than in last year's adventure.

Pioneer 11 has repeatedly been dubbed "lucky" by its managers because it is finding precious data by sheer accident. In the inner radiation belts, packing the power of several hydrogen bombs, the unmanned spaceship will need all the luck it can get.

$100 Million Arab Bid Rejected By Lockheed

BURBANK (UPI) — A group of Arab investors offered $100 million to buy a controlling interest in Lockheed Aircraft Corp., the nation's largest defense contractor, but were turned down, a Lockheed vice president confirmed yesterday.

"The offer was made about nine months ago, but it's really a piece of ancient history now," said William D. Perreault.

"The offer was not taken to Lockheed's board of directors and it wasn't discussed with the Defense Department," he said.

Perreault's confirmation came on the heels of a story in the Washington Post yesterday that the Arab investment plan was confirmed Friday by Roger Tamarz, a Harvard-educated Lebanese investment banker who heads the First Arabian Corp. in Beirut.

The Post said Tamarz offered Lockheed $100 million last spring on behalf of a group of Arab investors from Persian Gulf oil-producing states "as a test case that would show Arab money coming into the U.S. in a responsible fashion."

However, Tamarz denied the offer was for a controlling interest.

Perreault said at the time of the offer, Lockheed's board of directors appointed a committee to investigate sources of new equity for the financially troubled firm.

New Role Of Catholic Women

By BETH ASHLEY

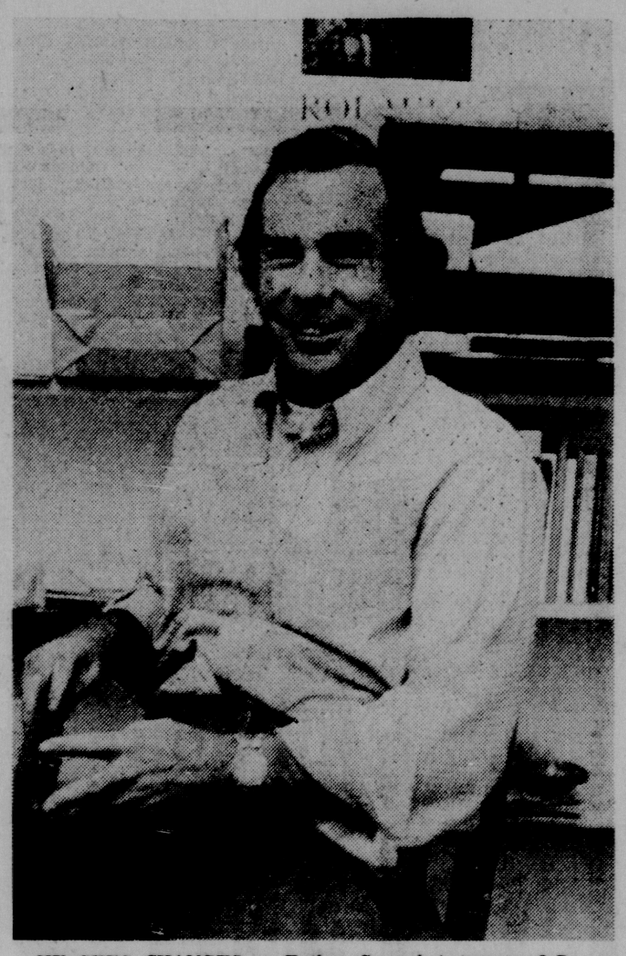
The day is coming when women will no longer be second class citizens in the Catholic Church.

That is the assertion of Father Conrad Antonsen, OP, a teacher of religious studies at Dominican College, who will conduct a weekend retreat for women next Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Santa Sabina Center on the San Rafael campus.

He will talk with the women about their changing role: "Many Catholic women are confused about what's going on in the church," he said.

What's going on, Father Conrad believes, is change. And as a priest of the church, educated in the late '50s and early '60s, he is fervently in favor of it, particularly in the new stress on individual responsibility and a more positive attitude toward women.

Still, he acknowledges, change is slow.



HE SEES CHANGES — Father Conrad Antonsen, O.P., shown here in his office at Dominican College, believes that women will have an increasingly important role in the Catholic church.

THE CHURCH is an institution, with all the dymnamics of an institution. Institutions don't change quickly or comfortably, he said, and as a result many of the changes decreed by the Second Vatican Council of the early 1960s have not taken place in the hearts of either the clergy or the people.

The basic spirit of that council was one of liberation, freedom and reconciliation, and because of it, change is taking place — slowly — in many areas of the church. Many of these changes affect women.

The stress on individual conscience has allowed Catholic women to practice contraception. There has been no doctrinal change in the church's teachings, he said, but a greater stress on the need for individual Catholics to make up their own minds about it. "Most people feel that to bring children into the world, one must guarantee their welfare," he said. While the faith teaching of the church is that God will take care of however many children are born, there is a growing feeling that "one must balance this teaching with common sense, and a feeling that we can't ask God to do the impossible.

"A desire not to have children ever is wrong," however, he said. Decisions must be made only after studying the church's teachings.

THERE IS a change, too, in the form of Catholic wedding ceremonies. Alternatives are available to the "pagan" and "tragic and inhuman" custom of the bride's being escorted up the aisle to meet her bridegroom: "This is purely and simply a display of goods, a showing off of the package that a mother and father have produced." The church now allows the bride and groom to be to walk to the altar together, or for the families of both to meet at the front of the church or the father of the bride to escort the mother of the groom — symbols of the coming together of two families.

Some Catholics are taking advantage of this change, "but by no means all. The mother of the bride usually makes the choice, and the old way persists," he said.

Catholics may now marry non Catholics in non Catholic churches, Father Conrad said. In all Catholic ceremonies, the priest is "just a witness" to the wedding rite, and a priest may delegate a minister of another church to be his witness.

AT FIRST, in the marriages of people of two different faiths, ministers of both faiths presided, but that was "messy," he said, so the new practice evolved.

"All that is required now" in mixed marriages, Father Conrad said, is that the Catholic signs that he will do his (or her) best" to raise children of the marriage as Catholics.

Divorce and remarriage is even becoming allowable in Catholic lives through the practice of annulment. If church officials decide that a marriage has "not been a sacramental marriage" an annulment is granted and remarriage within the church is allowed, Father Conrad said.

For those who have been unable to receive annulments, "pastoral solutions" are sometimes available, he said, in which individual pastors make the decision to allow remarried persons to receive the sacraments.

"A GREAT MANY priests are taking a lot of initiative in a lot of areas" now, he said, particularly on the West Coast. He pointed out that there are new ministries to "special people" — divorced people, and the homosexual community for example.

The Second Vatican Council had no direct influence on women, he said, but its spirit and the advent of the women's liberation movement had led Catholic women to demand a greater role in the church.

"At this point, Catholic women are second-class citizens in the church," he said. "The church is completely male dominated." The fact that all clergy are male and celibate fosters a negative attitude toward women: "A priest is going to be very wary around women."

HE HOPES for the day when women will be ordained in the church, but meanwhile sees them taking on an ever-growing role. "Religious orders of women are making great progress in developing individual styles of service. We have already seen the great change in their dress. They now work in inner cities. Many more are getting theological degrees and are proving themselves stimulating, exciting thinkers."

He smiled. "I've been struggling with the problem of the difference in the sexes myself. I used to think that women thought differently from men, that they weren't interested in abstract ideas. Now I believe that a lot of women have been sociologically conditioned to think differently, but are just as capable of abstract thought. I'm slacking off in some of my ideas . . . And if I'm changing, there's no reason why the rest of them (priests) can't change."

A lot more change is coming, he said. The traditional Catholic role of the woman in managing the household, caring for her husband and being subservient to him, will be replaced. "The whole human potential and special gifts of women will be brought to the fore."

FATHER CONRAD, 37, was born in Santa Rosa and trained at Loyola University of Chicago. He teaches at Dominican College two days a week and at St. Albert's College in Oakland, which is part of the Graduate Theological Union in Berkeley. He lives at the Berkeley Priory of the GTU.

He had these other observations:

On abortion — abortion on demand is still forbidden to Catholics, and it should be, he said. "If a women can dispose of a child with great ease, what kind of worth does she have in her own eyes? If she is left with the solution (to her pregnancy), she is still being treated as an object."

On womanhood — despite the male orientation of its clergy, the Catholic Church has done more than any other to elevate the role of women through its teachings about Mary, the mother of Christ.

On young people "living together" — Premarital sex, he tells his students, is a deterrent to a successful marriage relationship. "Total communication is terribly important in marriage." People must learn to communicate on all levels, not just the sexual one: "in many ways sex, while very real and important and holy, is the lowest from of communication."

On why he was not wearing traditional clerical garb: "I am here today as a teacher, not as a member of the priesthood."

On his goals within the church: "To help create, not a faith in Catholicism, but in Jesus Christ. To create an atmosphere where Jesus Christ can be known. To encourage, not Emily Post Christianity, but a vibrant, real, alive faith were reconiliation and salvation are available to all."

Women interested in attending the retreat which Father Conrad will conduct are advised to call the Santa Sabina Center. Cost of the retreat is limited to the cost of food and laundry service, Father Conrad said.

Novato Organizes A Center

Women who are interested in forming an organization to help support the Novato Human Needs Center are invited to a meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at the center, 1523 South Novato Boulevard in Novato.

The center distributes food, clothing and furniture, sponsors a children's social activities program, has an employment service, family counseling services, single mothers' groups, a hotline and free medical clinic.

The center is financed 70 per cent by grants from the county and private foundations. The remainder of the budget must be raised locally. The women's organization would be a fund raising arm of the center.

Gift Book Selections To Be Aired

Selecting gift books for children is the topic which Marylyn Bjorklund will discuss at a meeting of the literary section of the Outdoor Art Club at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the clubhouse.

Mrs. Bjorklund will emphasize the interests and reading abilities of the individual child. She will mention books which are topical and classical, those that lead to vocations or avocations, those that interest and inspire. The speaker, an avid reader, and a former media writer for CBS, has two young children of her own. She is a volunteer in the school library at St. Hilary's School in Tiburon, and has observed what children really like to read when they make their own selections.

The session is open to the public at no fee.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

There's A Difference Between Spanked And Battered Children

DEAR HELEN:

Let's make a distinction: Spanked children aren't battered children. Those persons who condemn mothers for reprimanding their kids in supermarkets are barking up the wrong shopping cart.

I'm sick and tired of seeing permissive parents drag their screaming brats through a store, prattling, "Now, Johnny, be a good boy and I'll give you a cookie when we get home." What Johnny really needs is a good smack right now and he would stop whining, pulling things off shelves and driving everyone crazy.

Psychiatrists agree that punishment should be delivered immediately or it is not effective. I personally never minded a crying child, if the crying started from a well-deserved smack on the bottom. What I do mind is the soupy parent who croons, threatens, bribes, and does everything but what's right and then in 10 years or so wonders, "Why can't I make my child mind?"

Incidentally, I am the mother of two respectful, obedient children, aged 8 and 10. — P.K.

DEAR P.:

Seems to me, all of you who sided with the "supermarket slappers" miss one large point: If spankings are a cure-all, why then is much-spanked Johnny such a brat?

Keep in mind we weren't discussing the occasional, well-deserved swat when a child gets out of line. What makes me shudder is the mother who turns a store into a battleground, mainly because she sees parenthood as warfare. If she has any kind of communication with her children, they wouldn't be little demons out in public — at least not often. Right? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have a partial solution to the rape problem. Why don't we make it illegal for women to go out unescorted at night? If they'd stay off the streets, they wouldn't be targets. And if they'd double-lock their doors and stop parading before open windows, men wouldn't lose their heads. — FOR ENFORCED PROTECTION

DEAR FEP:

That's like jailing the victim while the criminal runs loose! May I quote Golda Meir who said, "Once in a cabinet meeting we had to deal with an outbreak of assaults on women at night. One minister suggested a curfew: women should stay home after dark. I said, 'But it's the men who are attacking the women. If there's to be a curfew, let the men stay home, not the women!' "

Right on, Mrs. Meir! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I read in a Sunday magazine that in Japan doctors are turning non-virgins into apparent virgins with a simple operation that costs around $150. They stitch in a fake hymen.

I'd like that kind of operation for my daughter since she is now dating a man from a very proper family. He believes she is a virgin and is very proud of the fact; but she had an affair when she was 16, about which we are very ashamed. Do they perform this operation in the states? — M.R.T.

P.S. I realize she could lie, but proof is important for the wedding night.

DEAR M.:

Ask your doctor. But first ask yourself: Is this my daughter's wish or mine? Somehow I don't think the operation will ever catch on in the states. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

are asked to bring canned goods to be given to needy families, according to Barbara Rucker, program chairman.

Reservations should be made with Betty Machado or Ann Lewin.

"The Liberty Tree," a film celebrating the United States Bicentennial, will be shown at the potluck dinner at 7 p.m. Friday planned by members of Court St. Raphael No. 1406 of the Catholic Daughters of America. The meeting will be held in the social hall of St. Raphael's Catholic Church in San Rafael.

Expectant Parents Classes Set

A series of classes for expectant parents, sponsored by the Education for Childbirth Program, will begin Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the physical therapy office of Gunhild Brown in Greenbrae.

Registered physical therapist Margaret Farley will be the instructor.

Eight weekly classes will include exercises to help the expectant mother to be more comfortable during pregnancy, relaxing and breathing techniques, posture training and exercises for post natal recovery.

Instruction will also be given to increase the understanding of the process of pregnancy, labor and birth. Films on childbirth will be shown.

Fathers are encouraged to attend classes for emphasis on the support role played by him.

Expectant parents should enroll early in pregnancy; however, enrollment is accepted anytime during the prenatal period. Further information is available from the office of Gunhild Brown.

Yarn 'Ribbon' Cuts Wrap Cost

To tie Christmas gifts consider fat yarn in brilliant colors. It is less expensive in the yarn department than at the gift wrap counter. For a rich effect, braid into thick strands.

Silver or gold fine metallic cord goes far and is effective when used with a solid color wrapping and tied into small bows. A plainly wrapped package can be perked up by adding a sprig of holly, a spray of fir, a pine cone, dried flowers or unshelled walnuts.

Janice E. Culotta to Be Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Culotta of San Rafael announces the engagement of their daughter Janice Elaine Culotta of Boulder, Colo., to Russell William Teets, also of Boulder.

The couple plans to be married Jan. 3 in Montgomery Chapel at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Janice is the sister of Joyce Maier of Ft. Collins, Colo., Jeffrey Culotta of Boulder and Joanne, Jack, Jill and Jerri Culotta of San Rafael. Her grandmothers are Gladys Smith of Bridgeton, N.J., and Sadie Culotta of San Rafael. She is a graduate of Boulder High School and attends the University of Colorado.

Russell's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Otis E. Teets of Boulder. He is the brother of Walter Teets of Michigan, Richard Teets of Palo Alto and Donald Teets of Boulder. Mrs. Nellie Teets of Boulder is his grandmother. He is also a graduate of Boulder High School and also attends the University of Colorado.

Trash Bags Make Slick Packages

Black or green plastic trash bags can make a slick looking Christmas package at a low price. Here's how: Cut to size, use transparent tape to hold corners tightly and tie with a silver string.

Aluminum foil is also great for small presents. Use gold cord for an elegant tie or tuck the name card under a glued on, gold wrapped chocolate coin.

Yule Safety Tips Offered

Two Consumer Product Safety Commission fact sheets, "Christmas Decorations" and "Toy Safety," are now available free from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

The following are safety tips for decorating the home: unplug decoration lights before going to bed; outdoor lights should be weatherproof and clearly identified as outdoor lights; do not use electric lights on a metal street, illuminate with colored floodlights placed away from the tree; never use wax candles on or near the tree; using spun glass "angel hair" and spray-on artificial snow together is a fire hazard.

"Toy Safety" gives guidelines for choosing holiday gifts for children including a warning against toys with sharp edges or points, detachable small parts and parts that have been put together with straight pins, sharp wires or nails.

PLASTIC PAYMENT PLAN — Cash and carry is no longer the only way to buy food. A growing number of supermarkets is allowing customers to pay with bank credit cards.

Paying For Groceries With Plastic

By DAVID T. COOK
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

With food bills an ever larger item in family budgets, a small but growing number of supermarkets is offering shoppers eat-now, pay-later plans.

The ultimate impact of inflation now can be postponed at almost 300 supermarkets where purchases may be paid for with bank credit cards as well as the more conventional cash or check.

The number of consumers whose grocery bills come on a monthly credit card statement has "picked up quite a lot" in recent months, said Robert Hensel, a National BankAmericard, Inc. (NBI) official.

A random check of super markets in Marin did not turn up any that are accepting credit cards with the exception of Petrini's where Master Charge and BankAmericard are accepted in the liquor department.

Food Mart in San Rafael has charge accounts available to customers, and Lucky Markets allows institutions, schools, businesses and organizations to charge.

The two major bank credit cards, Master Charge and BankAmericard, account for the vast majority of U.S. supermarket plastic payment plans, Hensel's statistics indicate.

TRAVEL AND entertainment card companies, like American Express, currently are not permitting grocery stores to accept their cards.

"We have a high-ticket-item image," an American Express card spokesman noted. "Of course groceries are fast becoming that," he added.

Supermarket shoppers appear to use credit cards largely "when specials come out" and they are low on cash, said Glen Eley, assistant controller of the Imperial Foodtown, Inc., chain in Dayton, Ohio. In addition to snapping up specials, credit cards are frequently used for "impulse buying," Eley added.

The number of credit-card purchases goes up to around 3 per cent of total sales in stores in wealthy suburban towns, Eley said.

But patterns of credit-card use sometimes surprise supermarket officials. When Dominick's Finer Foods chain in Chicago began accepting credit cards, it expected suburban customers to be the most heavy chargers. In the two months the chain has offered a card-payment plan, it has been "getting some rather active use in the inner city," a spokesman said.

WHILE CREDIT-CARD use at supermarkets often grows with time, there are no reports that cash and checks have been supplanted as the most common payment methods.

Even though the A. J. Bayless chain has accepted both BankAmericard and Master Charge since 1969, credit-card sales still account for only 5 to 7 per cent of sales, said Robert Dillard, Bayless vice-president.

Despite growing acceptance, supermarket credit card plans are still an "isolated" phenomenon, said Vic Hirsh, National Association of Food Chains spokesman.

The chains that do accept bank cards have motives for their decision that go beyond wanting to increase customer convenience.

Credit cards offer the "opportunity to reduce expenses by leveling the work load," said Kenneth Geisert, finance vice-president of Ralph's Markets, a southern California chain. Credit cards theoretically allow customers to shop at their convenience rather than crowding stores on common paydays.

Another motive for credit card acceptance is the desire to see the size of the average tab go up. The Bayless chain, in Phoenix, Ariz., reports its average credit-card purchase is three times that of its average cash sale.

Larger purchases spread out more evenly during the month often allow a store to cut its labor costs, grocers say.

Credit-card plans also allow markets to reduce bad-check losses. And the 3 or 4 per cent of stores that offer in-house credit plans can "cut costs substantially" by switching to bank-operated plans, said Roger Conant, an official of a Connecticut Bank.

"I came to Gloria Marshall very fat and very depressed. I was depressed and I didn't think anyone could help me. The Gloria Marshall counselors were so sweet and beautiful – that was an encouragement. I have succeeded in losing 26½ pounds and 42½ inches. I now weigh 114 pounds. My husband is so happy with the progress, it's like being on a second honeymoon. My two boys are also thrilled with me. This is going to be a terrific Christmas now that I have a new figure.

Thank you Gloria Marshall."

A CHRISTMAS TREE WAR?

Peking Lavishes Its Attention On Kissinger—He Says Little

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During his visit to China, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ate rice dumplings shaped like goldfish that hid a trove of spice.

They could be compared to the 69-word communique issued last week at the end of his trip involving 11 hours of talks with China's leaders. All it said was that President Ford will be visiting China, probably late in 1975. It hid a trove of knowledge that Kissinger got from the visit.

Kissinger has said little in public so far. Today he met with President Ford for 45 minutes but there was no official word of what the two men discussed.

Peking lavished almost unprecedented attention on Kissinger, his wife Nancy and his two children during their stay.

The Chinese Communist newspaper, People's Daily, and the official New China News Agency, however, sharply criticized the United States less than 48 hours after Kissinger's visit.

"The United States resorted to despicable means and played tricks on precedural matters to block U.N. membership for the Peking-based government headed by Cambodian Prince Norodom Sinhanouk," NCNA sais Sunday.

The Agency said the United States resorted to "acts of sabotage" in blocking the move for U.N. membership.

There was no hint of the verbal attack, however, during Kissinger's tour.

Foreign minister Chiao Kuanhua himself acted as the tour guide in Soochow. Even though he is ailing, Premier Chou Enlai received not only Kissinger but his family in the hospital. Chou usually gives the most VIP visitor 15 minutes. The Kissingers got 30.

Sometimes, in the privacy of his Air Force plane or relaxing with friends, Kissinger will raise his voice and gesture with a chopping hand motion at the frustration of having to produce a dramatic prize, maintaining the image of the "super secretary."

Kissinger will drop his chin, roll up his eyes and say too many forget that it took three years to produce his Vietnam settlement and the lifetime of several jet airplane engines to evolve his Middle East diplomacy. This visit to China is more basic foundation work on which a "super Kissinger stroke" could later appear.

What did he accomplish?

He got unequaled knowledge of the thinking of China's leaders. Kissinger said publicly this is vital in helping form U.S. policy. Lower-ranking Americans do not have the same access to Peking leaders.

Kissinger, in the delicate between-the-lines subtleties of the way Chinese talk across a negotiating table, got an unequaled sense of where the China versus Russia situation stands. It seems, also based on the Vladivostok summit last week, that there is no atmosphere of a Sino-Soviet war at least in the next year or so but danger lingers in the air.

Kissinger secured enough insight in Peking to see as no "major issue" the generation-old demands of Americans seeking payment for property seized by the Communists and the Communists wanting assets frozen in America. The $15 million or so matter barely tickles Kissinger's interest.

Kissinger experienced confirmation that America rides high in Chinese interest.

Kissinger got the Ford visit as a bonus. When he arrived Monday he did not suspect the Chinese were interested. By Tuesday night Kissinger felt sure the diplomatic murmurings over the teacups by the Chinese spelled out a desire for a presidential visit. There were two telephone calls to the White House. Kissinger tossed out the idea and the Chinese grabbed it. The visit is set for next year —apparently a Chinese try for one-upmanship with Moscow.

Daimler-Benz Purchaser Is Identified As Kuwait

BONN (UPI) — Kuwait has purchased 14.6 per cent of the stock of Daimler-Benz, the Economics Ministry said today. It ended a weekend of speculation as to which oil producing country has bought its way into the makers of Mercedes automobiles.

The sale of $323.8 million worth of shares late last week touched off a wave of press speculation as to the buyer's identity.

The ministry said Friday that the shares went to a Middle East oil producer but, at a news conference today, a spokesman said, "the government of Kuwait got the package."

He said the stock is intended as an investment and will not give Kuwait a voice in running the business side of Daimler-Benz.

MUSIC REVIEW

Shining Young Talent Opens Dominican Series

By BLAKE A SAMSON

The Dominican College Music Associates opened its 1974-1975 Chamber Music Series last night with a program notable for its delicate gaiety and good cheer.

The 50 members of the audience were treated to quite a shining display of young talent, particularly Edna Comerchero, a flutist from New England with fine interpretive polish.

The series is a modest program which might explain the small audience and few of its performers are known Bay Area artists, yet they are proficient.

Miss Comerchero had great fluency, muting the sound to a quiet whisper or whistling in a full, voice-like vibrato. She would flip notes out into the air like a bird's sudden trill or lazily float a breezy line with awesome facility.

Momentarily she sounds breathy or thin, but the lift, grace and charm she brought to the concert was a distinct pleasure.

The piece ended in a blend of ornamentation that truly was intriguing.

Paul Lacome's "Passepied No. 2, Trois Danses Anciennes" is a short but exotic conversation piece for cello and flute against a harpsichord background. It is musty, like an incense-filled bazaar, then springs forward with dancelike flourishes. It was played with vivid coloration, suggestion and vitality.

It was in the second movement of Telemann's "Trio in F Major" that Jane Rabin, who has been principal cellist with the Sacramento Symphony, showed her most sensitive and warm touch. She had a strong, even command playing close to the instrument's bridge.

The trio curves, then instead of coming down the scale, seems to float lightly off on some trajectory.

The second movement is an abrupt change, long and sad, it moves into an excited, glad third movement.

While Miss Comerchero and Miss Rabin were deep into interpretive issues Janice Eastman — who, at the age of 12, won both Iowa and Nebraska state piano competitions — seemed more comfortable with her piano than harpsichord.

The first half of the concert could be faulted for Miss Eastman's rocky, almost awkward pacing and for a similarity of style that belied the century-long difference between Leclair and Lacome. The Teutonic Telemann was also given a rather French turn.

Eugene Goosen's "Five Impressions of a Holiday, Op. 7, No. 1" proves that some modern music can be marvelously melodious, affecting and comprehensible.

This was Miss Eastman's delight for she moved among the changing rhythms with expression, first impressionistic, then moody, euphoric, then a sad melancholia intercut with a longing, wistful attempt at joy.

Rhythmically, the work moves in one direction, halts, questions, then sadly turns elsewhere. Its second movement makes a telling comment on man's isolation and loneliness.

The third movement has a Debussy-like sparkle and depth of texture. There is one incredible overlapping of flute vibrato, piano ornamentation and cello accents (played by lightly tapping the strings with the bow) that rings with life.

The fourth movement is clarionlike and the last movement closes with joyous abandon, giggling like a small boy going down a long slide.

The variety in emotion, the movement among difficult and different temperaments, made this the evening's highpoint.

The program closed with Bohuslav Martinu's "Trio for Flute, Cello and Piano."

The work is an interesting mixture of quick originality and beelike flutter and long banality. The Adagio is a bit tiresome but the Andante makes up for it with a display of bright glitter that rings with novelty.

When Martinu turns serious and sad and introspective, he can be acutely common but, happily, he stays predominantly extroverted and exuberant.

The audience called for and received an encore, a brief delight, "The Waterwheel" by Goosens.

All in all, a most charming opening to a series that will offer more Chamber Music concerts on Jan. 19, Feb. 23, and April 13, 1975, all 7:30 p.m. in Angelico Hall on Dominican's San Rafael campus.

Blood Substance Used To Aid Cancer Victim

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Doctors at the University of California have used a substance from a man's blood to prolong the life of his cancer stricken teen-aged daughter, it was reported last night.

"We now have the means to prolong the lives of bone cancer victims, most of whom would die within 18 months despite surgery, radiation or drugs," Dr. H. Hugh Fudenberg said of a substance called TF, which stands for transfer factor and is produced by white blood cells.

Doctors believe that such a process may be used someday to cure a number of diseases, including rheumatoid arthritis and multiple sclerosis.

Dr. Fudenberg's research started in 1969 when TF was extracted from the blood of a man's whose 15-year-old daughter was dying of a bone cancer which formed a large tumor in her hip. The girl was injected with the substance twice a week, and her condition remained stable for nine months. When her immunity to the cancer weakened, lab tests showed that the father's immunity to the cancer cells was also zero. Another donor was found, and doctors said the girl's response was dramatic. She remained stable for another 14 months before she died from complications.

"Her life had been extended far beyond the normal survival rate for cases of bone cancer," UC doctors said. Hospital officials said that out of gratitude, the girl's father still donates his white blood cells to treat other patients.

"We have laboratory evidence to support our belief that osteosarcoma (bone cancer) may be of viral origin, and that people having close contact with patients, relatives and close associates, receive a measurable immunity to osteosarcoma which can be transferred by TF to the patients to boost their own immunity to these specific cancer cells," Dr. Fudenberg said. "This is not to say that people can 'catch' cancer from someone else," the immunology professor stressed, "only that certain viruses under certain conditions can cause cancer."

Dr. Fudenberg said doctors now believe that bone cancer victims have a defective immunology system which is "probably genetic".

SAVED — Three of four crewmen rescued by helicopter after the Canadian freighter Jennifer sank yesterday in Lake Michigan, show various responses as they rest after their ordeal. Another 11 crewmen took to a lifeboat and were rescued by a British cargo vessel. No lives were lost after the Jennifer was lashed by high waves. 15 Are Rescued As Freighter Sinks

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (UPI) — The 210-foot Canadian freighter Jennifer, lashed by 14-foot waves and near gale winds, sank in Lake Michigan yesterday. All 15 crewmen were rescued unharmed.

Four of the crewmen were plucked from the sinking ship by a Coast Guard helicopter. The other 11 crewmen abandoned ship for a lifeboat and were rescued by the British cargo vessel Fortuna which answered the Jennifer's distress call.

"It got pretty frantic out there," said a Coast Guard spokesman. "It was a rather hectic rescue effort."

The Jennifer, owned by Alcoma Steel Co., was en route to Milwaukee with a cargo of steel pilings and beams when it ran into near gale force winds and 10 to 14-foot waves shortly after midnight, the Coast Guard said.

Crewmen told officials the vessel began to list to starboard when the cargo broke loose during pounding from the high waves. The Jennifer issued a call for help and the Coast Guard sent two helicopters and three surface craft.

A Spanish cargo vessel called to the location also tried to hook up to the foundering Jennifer but the cable strung between the two ships snapped under the strain.

The captain then ordered the ship abandoned.

Two Injured As Car Hits Guardrail

A San Rafael man suffered a broken nose and cuts on his face today when his car slammed into a guardrail at the intersection of Highways 17 and 101.

Antonio Escalante, 31, of 35 Valencia Street, Apt. 6, was reported in satisfactory condition at Marin General Hospital. A passenger, Oliver Escalante, 33, of the same address, was treated for minor injuries but was not hospitalized.

The California Highway Patrol reported Escalante was driving west at 1 a.m. on Highway 17 and was merging onto Highway 101 northbound when his auto drifted onto the shoulder of the road.

When he pulled the car back onto the roadway he veered across several lanes, striking the center divider guard rail, investigators said.

Educator Seeks Tradition Books

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The head of the U.S. Education Commission says he thinks school books should be more like the Bible, McGuffey's Reader and The Wizard of Oz.

"We could use more emphasis on some of those values today," says Commissioner Terrel H. Bell.

In a speech prepared for a meeting of the School Division of the Association of American Publishers in Cherry Hill, N.J., Bell urged members, whose companies produce more than 80 per cent of the nation's school texts, films and instructional materials, to print only "materials that do not insult the values of most parents."

"... I think the children's book publishing industry, and the schools, need to chart a middle course between the scholar's legitimate claim to academic freedom in presenting new knowledge and social commentary on the one hand, and the legitimate expectations of parents that schools will respect their moral and ethical values on the other," he said.

Juvenile literature "appears to emphasize violence and obscenity and moral judgments that run counter to tradition, all in the name of keeping up with the real world.

"Without having books and materials that are so namby-pamby they avoid all controversy, we must see published materials that do not insult the values of most parents."

Ford Ability Doubted In Inflation Fight

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Gallup poll conducted for Newsweek magazine indicates a large number of Americans doubts President Ford's ability to deal with the economy, and 53 per cent rate his leadership as fair to poor.

The poll, appearing in the magazine's Dec. 9 edition, also shows "that a majority favors wage and price controls and curbs on government spending."

The weekly newsmagazine reported that a telephone survey of 760 persons showed "53 per cent of Americans feel President Ford's leadership is only fair to poor."

The poll said that 46 per cent had little or no confidence in Ford's ability to deal with economic problems while 42 per cent said they had a "fair amount" of confidence and nine per cent said they had a "great deal" of confidence.

The magazine said 36 per cent of those questioned rated Ford's ability to lead as fair, 17 per cent gave a poor rating, while 4 per cent said he was doing an excellent job, 12 per cent said very good and 26 per cent said good.

But a majority of the 76 per cent who gave an opinion on a bid by Ford for the presidency in 1976 said they would like to see him run. Forty six per cent were in favor of his candidacy while 30 per cent said they opposed it.

According to the poll, Americans also feel inflation is a bigger problem than a recession by 59 to 33 per cent and favor "sharp restrictions on federal government spending" by 69 to 22 per cent.

They oppose Ford's proposed income tax surcharge, 52 to 39 per cent. The poll also showed 81 per cent said Ford was right in saying he would not consider a 10 cent a gallon gasoline tax and 13 per cent disagreed.

Woman, 77 Critical In Car Wreck

A 77-year-old Belvedere woman was critically injured last night in a two-car smashup on Highway 101.

Edith A. Schilling of 140 San Rafael Avenue was in the intensive care unit at Marin General Hospital today with multiple injuries.

She was driving north at 11:05 p.m. when her auto collided with a car driven by Fred Bethley, 60, of San Francisco, north of the Tiburon Boulevard overcrossing, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Bethley and his wife, Priscilla, 55, were treated for minor injuries but not hospitalized. A passenger in Mrs. Schilling's car, Ann Van Deus, 72, of 312 Golden Gate Avenue, Belvedere, was not hurt.

Hit-Run Driver In Scales Damage

Police said the driver apparently smashed his vehicle into a shed housing machinery for the Bar Ale Feed Company's truck scale at Second and D streets. Witnesses said they heard the crash a few minutes after midnight.

WE'RE UNHAPPY ABOUT YOUR PG&E BILL, TOO.

Every winter we point out that "the season's the reason" your PG&E bills go up. That's because during winter months you use more energy for heating, lighting, cooking, TV watching and other home comforts.

But this winter, bills will be even higher because of increased fuel costs. As you may know, most PG&E rate increases have been to offset the higher prices we, PG&E, must pay for natural gas and fuel oil.

We are continuing to work hard to be efficient and hold down your rates as much as possible. You can help hold down your PG&E bill too, by following these energy conservation tips.

Weatherstrip around doors and windows. Insulate walls and ceilings. Clean or replace furnace filters if necessary. Keep the fireplace damper closed when not in use. Close drapes at night, and set your thermostat no higher than 68°.

You'll also save energy by turning off lights and the TV when they're not in use. And by not preheating the oven. And tell the kids: "Shut that door!"

Unpaid Tickets A Headache

By LYNDE McCORMICK

What can police and court agencies in the United States do about the hundreds of thousands of unpaid parking tickets that pile up every year?

In larger cities across the nation, police have turned to computers to ease the burden of paper work. In some, including Chicago, Detroit, Boston, and San Francisco, nearly one half of all tickets issued are not paid.

The problem is growing, experts say, because of increased urban congestion. One Chicago source attributes growth to inflation — "a parking ticket is the last thing many people want to pay," he said.

Computers have only lightened the load, not removed it, and a variety of other approaches are being tried.

San Francisco, where officials claim to have the problem under control, has a special police detail to handle "scofflaws" (parking-ticket evaders).

Twelve men are used solely to arrest those who persist in ignoring tickets. (Owners, not drivers, are held responsible.) A spokesman says the detail has more than paid for itself with negligent fines brought in.

In Chicago, now in the fifth year of a "scofflaw Project," warrants are issued once a year for the arrest of anyone with more than 10 unpaid citations.

The project has brought in $13 million which "otherwise would have gone uncollected," says one court official. The city issues 3 million tickets annually, and about half of last year's warrants are outstanding.

Boston meter maids carry a list of autos with more than five unpaid tickets tagged to them; they can have the cars towed away and held until the owners pay up. The city recently ordered about 25 more tow trucks to supplement the program.

Nonetheless, police, by their own admission, are generally understaffed and underbudgeted to handle the problem effecitvely.

"There's just too much paper work to go after these people with any degree of efficiency," said Robert Black, assistant clerk of the Boston Municipal Court. "Only about 20 to 25 per cent of the people pay on time, and the rest don't get caught up with for six to eight months."

The city's "tow and hold" policy pays for itself and is the only way to catch up with out-of-state cars, but, according to Black: "There are just too many cars."

Detroit's problem is typical:

"We issue about 1.5 million tickets a year and have a backlog of a million unpaid tickets," says D. T. Harvey, chief clerk of the Detroit Traffic Court. Few more than half pay within the 15-day limit.

"We issue arrest warrants at random to anyone with over two tickets. But the problem is serving the warrants," he said.

Like many large cities, Detroit has a floating population. By the time a warrant is issued, the "scofflaw" may have changed addresses. Understaffing often prevents police from following through on warrants or even attempting to serve them in the first place.

One Detroit women told of accumulating $3,000 worth of tickets over six years. Harvey was not surprised.

Christmas Trees A Joyous Crop

By MARY LEYDECKER

Some 18 years ago, Al Schleth, who had a feather business on his property near Petaluma, was trying to think of something to raise on the 22 acres that was in pasture.

The decision Schleth came to was to raise Christmas trees — Monterey pines — from seedlings, and the venture, the first such in Sonoma County, proved to be a success that grows each year.

Not only is the Schleth family selling about 1,000 trees a year at their farm on Sprauer Road, but many of their neighbors and other Southern Sonoma County residents have also found Christmas trees a profitable enterprise.

People who used to be able to make a living out of chickens on a few acres in the Petaluma business were driven out of that business with the "high price of feed," Mrs. Schleth explained, and, in many instances, Christmas trees have replaced hens.

For Schleth, the feather business (he processes them for pillows), is still a major source of income, but the trees are a plus. Further, the family creates little decorative trees of feathers as well as other boutique items to sell during the holiday season.

A visit to the Schleths' tree farm in December now means Christmas music coming from a loudspeaker and sometimes even a Santa Claus on the scene.

"It's a wonderful thing to sell Christmas trees," said Mrs. Schleth as she cheerily wished a Mill Valley family "Merry Christmas" as they drove off, two trees atop the family bus.

Most of the customers come from Marin County, Mrs. Schleth said. "People from Petaluma say they're coming out 'next weekend'," but all of a sudden, it's Christmas and they still haven't come."

The Marin residents, on the other hand, she said, often pay a visit to the farm early in the season and tag a tree they intend to purchase later.

"Some of our regular customers bring a picnic each year and have a tailgate lunch out among the trees," Mrs. Schleth continues.

"Some people roam around for hours," she said.

The Monterey pines are still the Schleths' main crop. "They do the best in our sandy soil," Mrs. Schleth explained. But on the farm the Schleths also raise some Bishop pines and some firs. They also bring in cut trees from the mountains.

Raising Christmas trees may not be as arduous as some kind of crops, but it's still work, the Schleths say.

Each year old stumps are removed and new trees planted, preferably right after a good rain in the spring. "My husband likes a nice, symmetrical field," Mrs. Schleth said.

There isn't much watering of the trees, but commercial fertilizer is plowed into the ground. And hoeing and cultivating are necessary "so that the weeds don't take over the trees." There is also a certain amount of pruning in order that symmetrical shapes are achieved.

Through the year, Schleth and one of his sons work with the trees and the feather business, but come December "all our three sons and their wives drop everything else and pitch in" for the busy season.

For the Schleths, "this is the joy of it," sending city dwellers home "with a beautiful green thing" they have chosen and cut down themselves.

Wide Variance In Drug Costs Is Found In Marin Pharmacies

A common prescription drug that sells for $4.75 in one Marin pharmacy may be double that price in another.

A survey made last month by the consumer staff of the Marin County Human Relations Department reported that prices commonly varied by several dollars on under-$10 items.

In the 13 Marin pharmacies surveyed, a three months' supply of the contraceptive Ovulen-21 cost $4.75, the least, at Long's Drugs at the Northgate Shopping Center and $9.20, the most, at the Woodlands Pharmacy in Kentfield. Other drug stores prices ranged between, with Long's Drugs in Novato selling the product at 75 cents more than Long's in Northgate.

The antibiotic Tetracycline sold for $3.75 at the Sausalito Pharmacy and was priced $1.75 at Payless Drugs at the Northgate Shopping Mall for the same 250 milligram amount.

Ten milligrams of the tranquilizer Librium (diazipan), which was priced under $2.79 at Thrifty Drugs in Corte Madera and San Rafael and Long's in Novato, carried a $4.85 price sticker at the Corinthian Pharmacy in Belvedere. The Village pharmacy in Mill Valley sold the drug for $4.70. Others ranged between the high and low.

Forty tablest (250 milligrams) of another antibiotic, Erythrocin, showed a difference of $6.35 between the highest and lowest prices quoted for the drug, ranging from $11.85 at the Village Pharmacy in the Town and Country Village shopping center in Mill Valley to $5.50 at Long's in Novato.

The price chart does not indicate whether the drug is a brand name or a generic name label, and a brand name drug may be a factor in higher pricing, according to Bette Wallace, consumer services deputy for the department.

Mrs. Wallace suggested that the consumer consult the physician or pharmacist to determine if the quality of the brand name and generically labelled drug is the same. In many cases, they are, she added, and the generic-name drug will often cost less.

Mrs. Wallace urged the consumer to read all labels on prescription drugs to be aware of side effects or possible interaction with other prescription or non-prescription drugs they may be taking. She said the pharmacist should also alert the consumer to possibility of such drug interaction.

While many of the chain drug stores showed lower prices than individual pharmacies in the survey, Mrs. Wallace said that the pharmacies may offer evening and holiday emergency services which the chain stores do not.

She suggested that consumers interested in comparing drug prices may telephone a pharmacy for a price quotation on a specific amount of a prescription drug.

Copies of the survey of 16 drugs and the services listed by 13 pharmacies are available from Consumer Hotline, Human Relations Department, Marin Civic Center.

Five Added To Novato Police Force

The Novato Police Department has hired five new patrolmen, chosen from a field of 165 applicants.

Michael Robert Peterson, 23, a California Highway Patrolman, will join the force Dec. 9. He holds a master of science degree in the administration of justice from Golden Gate University in San Francisco.

They Are: Rick Berndt, 22, of Santa Rosa, who holds a bachelor's degree in criminal justice administration from California State University at Sacramento; Michael D. Funk, 28, a car salesman in Petaluma, who holds an associate degree in hotel and restaurant administration from Paul Smith College in New York; Jay T. Christensen, 21, of Concord, who has a bachelor's degree in criminal justice from Sacramento State College, and James L. McHenry, 22, an employee of Libby-McNeill, who holds a bacheior's degree in criminology from the University of California at Berkeley.

Mercedes-Benz cannot introduce the Diesel passenger car as a new idea. We did that over 38 years ago.

You don't develop a Diesel passenger car overnight. A Diesel is something very particular. Before you introduce one, you'd better know exactly what you're doing.

Mercedes-Benz knows. Because Mercedes-Benz has been consistently developing Diesels longer than anyone else. And Mercedes-Benz alone has sold Diesels in America for over a decade. So when you buy a Mercedes-Benz Diesel from us, you get something no one else can offer. Years of important Diesel experience.

Extraordinary fuel economy

One result of this Diesel experience is fuel economy. In a strictly supervised test conducted independently by Motor Trend magazine, our latest Diesel, the 240D, recorded 24.4 miles per gallon. And that was with an automatic transmission. This test was a combination of actual urban and highway driving—no "economy run" or "proving ground" tests. No other full-sized sedan—foreign or domestic—delivers this kind of mileage.

Another result of this Diesel experience is maintenance economy. While any car needs some routine servicing, with a Mercedes-Benz Diesel you can forget about tune-ups. Diesels need no spark plugs, no points, no distributor, no carburetor. No conventional ignition or carburetion systems—no tune-ups ever. And parts that aren't there can't break down.

Come in and look over a Mercedes-Benz 240 Diesel for yourself. It's the most advanced Diesel automobile sold in America. It has interior space and trunk room on a par with the finest domestic luxury cars. A full 5-passenger sedan that's all Mercedes-Benz.

Not just a Diesel, a Mercedes-Benz

Arrange to test drive this unique Mercedes-Benz. Feel its remarkable handling—a product of fully independent suspension. Feel the strength of its disc brakes—4-wheel disc brakes. Feel secure—no manufacturer in the world has a greater commitment to safety than Mercedes-Benz.

Exceptional mileage, maintenance economy and dependability with the bonus of outstanding Mercedes-Benz resale value. Come in to see us. We'll show you the automobile that delivers them all—the unique Mercedes-Benz 240D. Not just a Diesel. A Mercedes-Benz.

Grey Whale Migration Under Way

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The annual sojourn of great gray whales heading toward warmer waters to breed and bear their young is under way.

"We're seeing two or three each day," said naturalist Al Pentis. By early January, he said, 80 or 90 of the southbound whales will be passing daily.

The National Marine Fisheries Service is reported ready with citations for boatmen who disturb the huge mammals. Pentis said fines would range up to $1,000 "and anyone caught deliberately harassing the whales can get up to one year in jail."

There could be a record count of 15,000 whales leaving Arctic waters for lagoons off Mexico's Baja California peninsula, Pentis said.

But he and government whale-watchers are uncertain of the exact number of migrating grays because of killings reported in the Northern Pacific where foreign fishermen work.

By next April, the return trip is usually over.

American statesman Frank Kellogg was born Dec. 2, 1856.

On this day in history:

In 1859, John Brown was hanged in the public square of Charlestown, Va., now Charlestown, W. Va. for his raid on Harper's Ferry. On the way to the gallows, he said of the countryside: "This is a beautiful country!"

In 1927, the Model A Ford was introduced as the successor to the famous Model T and was available for the first time in a variety of colors. The roadster sold for $395.

In 1942, the "Atomic Age" was born as a group of scientists demonstrated a self-sustaining nuclear chain reaction at a makeshift laboratory below the University of Chicago football stadium.

In 1961, Cuban Premier Fidel Castro revealed himself to be a Communist and said he has formed a single political party with himself as its head. He admitted he had concealed his true political philosophy until he had solidified his hold on Cuba.

HEART OPENER

West opened a heart, taken by dummy's ace. Declarer drew three rounds of trumps ending in her own hand and then led a club, losing the queen to East's ace.

When the ace of clubs appeared, West was clearly stricken. "Sorry, partner," she stammered, and she hung her head with a very pretty show of anguish.

The inference wasn't lost on South. West was clearly regretting her failure to lead a singleton club.

STRANGE FINESSE

South ruffed the heart return and led the nine of diamonds. Too crushed to think about the hand, West played a low diamond, and declarer finessed with dummy's jack!

When the finesse held, South returned a club to finesse with the seven. She then overtook the king of diamonds with dummy's ace to take another club finesse. The rest was just routine.

If West had kept quiet, South would have known nothing about the terrible break in clubs. But even after West let the cat out of the bag she could have recovered by putting up the queen of diamonds when South led the nine. That would limit declarer to one entry to dummy — not enough for the two club finesses she needed.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

ANSWER: Bid 2 no-trump. This shows 13 to 15 points, with balanced distribution and strength in each unbid suit.

Student Activism Not Around Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — Activism of the sixties has been replaced by an inwardness among students on college campuses, according to a survey of the student mood.

The study, by Change magazine, a publication dealing with education, showed that students are centering on their careers and seeking personal fulfillment.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Rheumatic Fever Is Common Cause Of Damage To The Heart

One of my neighbors, a robust widower of 60, called me late one evening. He was having a crushing sense of pressure in his chest (over the area roughly covered by the necktie). "Please come as quickly as you can, I've never felt so terrible." When I reached his apartment, John was sitting on the side of the bed, clutching his chest, his cold, ashen face drenched with perspiration.

This man was in the throes of a heart attack. I lost no time in summoning an ambulance, and arranging for a bed in the coronary care unit.

Several months before this happened, I examined a 4-year-old girl at the heart clinic. Her parents lived in a small but neat home and were having a struggle making ends meet. The evening I made an emergency housecall at their home, I found Suzie squatting on the floor trying to get air into her lungs. It seemed that each labored breath was going to be her last.

ACCORDING TO her parents, she had been a "blue baby" at birth. This child had a serious congenital heart defect, which has since been repaired surgically. Last week when they brought her into the clinic for her regular checkup, she was well, peppy and happy. So were they.

During World War II, rheumatic fever was common, not only among our troops, but also among children. Oddly, it was most prevalent along the east coast, the Midwest, Colorado and California.

Most of the victims developed a streptococcal sore throat, followed within a few weeks by loss of appetite, fever and red, swollen and painful joints. Aspirin worked well on them, but every other victim was left with murmurs or electrocardiographic changes indicative of heart involvement.

ONE-FOURTH WERE left with severe valvular scarring and developed dropsy (with or without fibrillation of the heartbeat) or subacute bacterial endocarditis (strep blood poisoning), and usually died in their early 40s. Penicillin and cardiac surgery to correct or replace scarred valves have taken away the sting of this disease.

The cases I've mentioned represent three common forms of heart disease — coronary, congenital and rheumatic. Heart trouble associated with high blood pressure is closely related to the coronary type. You may be surprised to learn that syphilis, viruses, anemia, hypothyroidism and avitaminosis also are implicated in cardiac disease.

WON'T WEAR HATS

W. L. writes: No wonder doctors see so many people with sinus infection. Have you ever tried to keep hats on two active little boys? During the winter, my sons get one cold after another. They also get ear aches. They refuse to keep on their hats because they say that other children don't.

REPLY

That old excuse, "None of the other kids wear hats," is difficult to buck. However, if sinus infections or ear aches bother your boys enough, they will learn to keep on their hats.

LOW METABOLISM

W. B. writes: I have gained quite a bit of weight in the last few months. The doctor tells me it is due to an inactive thyroid. Can a sluggish thyroid cause weight gain?

REPLY

Yes, it can. When the body metabolism is low, most of the food eated is stored as fat, instead of being burned up for energy. Doesn't he have you on thyroid extract?

DIABETES

J. J. writes: How does diabetes insipidus differ from diabetes mellitus?

REPLY

Diabetes mellitus is associated with a disturbance of the pancreas that affects carbohydrate metabolism. The victim urinates frequently to eliminate the excess sugar. But in diabetes insipidus, which involves the pituitary gland, a tremendous amount of pale urine of low specific gravity is passed. In order to avoid dehydration, a corresponding amount of fluids must be taken.

Rommel Elected Stuttgart Mayor

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI) — Manfred Rommel, 45, son of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, the "Desert Fox" of the Nazi Afrika Korps in World War, was elected mayor of Stuttgart yesterday.

Rommel, a Christian Democratic candidate, got 58.9 per cent of the vote to defeat Social Democrat Peter Conradi, who had 39.5 per cent.

Rommel, a state secretary in the Baden-Wuerttemberg state finance ministry, said during his campaign, "I am not running as someone's son, but as a man who has achieved something by himself."

More U.S. Aid For Turkey Seen

WASTINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., says the Ford Administration intends to send $218 million in military aid to Turkey despite lack of "visible progress" in peace negotiations over Cyprus.

Kennedy, chairman of the Senate Refugee's subcommittee, said the U.S. shipped over $40 million in arms to Turkey between July and September and that the new appropriation is $31 million over fiscal 1974.

Police Thwart Hijack Attempt

KARACHI (UPI) — Police today overpowered a young man who tried to hijack a SwissAir DC8 jetliner as it flew over Pakistan, the government news agency said.

The plane was on a flight from Colombo, Sri Lanka, to Geneva when the hijack attempt was made, the Associated Press of Pakistan said. It identified the hijacker as Mohammad Aslam, 24, and said he demanded to be flown to Tripoli, Libya, or Beirut.

Radio Pakistan said the man produced a toy pistol and ordered the pilot to proceed to the Middle East. It said the pilot told him he would have to land at Karachi to refuel. He was captured by police after the jetliner had landed, the report said.

Welfare Formula Favors Success

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare plans to cut federal welfare funds in areas with the poorest record of job placement for welfare recipients.

Under a bill now being considered by President Ford, HEW would redistribute some $17 million dollars this fiscal year for day care and other job-support services under a formula favoring states with the best results in placing welfare recipients.

Mac Davis Will Try To Bridge Gap

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The musical variety show, once a television staple but lately in decline, stages a comeback a mid-season with an NBC hour starring curly-haired Texan Mac Davis.

For a couple of decades, such singing stars as Dinah Shore, Perry Como, Andy Williams, Dean Martin, Glen Campbell, Tennessee Ernie Ford headed their own shows and drew top ratings.

All have disappeared from the weekly schedule.

Why the downfall of the musical show? Part of the reason is economic. The cost of live-on-tape production has risen steadily while the residual benefits are minimal.

The nature of today's pop music is also a negative factor. The top 40 tunes are mostly unknown to the over-30 audience, while the under 30s are bored by the standard songs and singer adored by their elders.

Mac Davis may be able to bridge that gap. His warmly sentimental songs have been enjoyed by both generations, and by country and city folks alike.

He is the guy who wrote "Watching Scotty Grow," "In the Ghetto," "Something's Burning," "Baby, Don't Get Hooked on Me," "I'll Paint You a Song," etc.

"I've been able to draw a complete cross-section at my concerts," observes the handsome 32-year-old. "I get the young kids in the front rows, and there's a sea of gray hair in the back."

Davis sings to both crowds — his ballads for the gray-haired patrons and "enough rock to satisfy the younger crowd."

Mac Davis spent his first 15 years in Lubbock, Tex., then moved to Atlanta, Ga., where he attended Emory University.

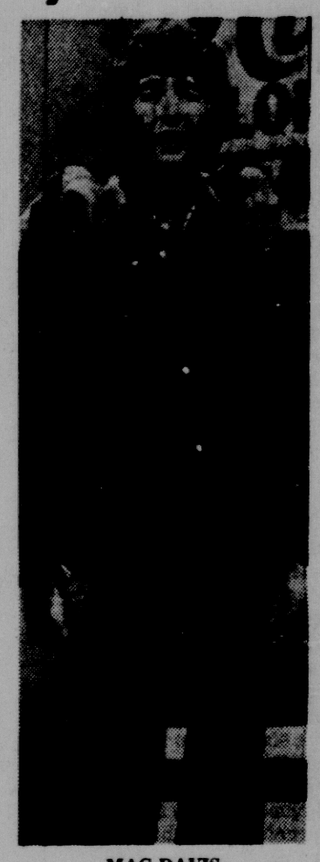
In fact, when I said in a magazine article that I had gone to Emory, the university denied having any record of it. I can understand why."

At one time he had his own rock 'n' roll band, but he decided against pursuing music for a living.

"I was married and had a kid," he said. "I had an image of ending up as a 35-year-old band singer working behind chicken wire so I wouldn't get hit from the audience."



MAC DAVIS
Singer-composer

Davis entered the record business, but as a promotion man, hustling the Vee-jay label through 13 states.

He wrote songs and recorded them in his own bathroom — "to get a natural echo." But whenever he presented them to his boses, they told him, "Forget it; just do your job."

He switched to Liberty Records and ended up in Hollywood, where he decided to concentrate on his song writing.

Lou Rawls recorded "You're Good for Me" and Glen Campbell did "Within My Memory."

When Elvis Presley made records of Davis's "Memories" and "In the Ghetto," other stars sought the young Texan's songs.

Among them: Andy Williams, Bobby Goldsboro, Sammy Davis Jr., Kenny Rogers and the First Edition.

Mac Davis's biggest hit was "I Believe in Music," which has been recorded by 5 artists.

"Then Columbia Records suggested that I ought to sing my own songs," he said. "I hadn't sung professionally since the rock 'n' roll days, but I decided to try.

Two years later I had the number-one record, "Baby, Don't Get Hooked on Me."

"It was strictly male chauvinist, but I made it up to the Women's Libbers with "One Hell of a Woman," he said.

NBC gave "The Mac Davis Show" a trial run last summer, and it did well against re-runs of "The Waltons."

He is again facing that huggable family starting Dec. 19, but he is confident that his show can compete.

"The main thing is to be warm and human and honest so that the folks at home want you in their house," said Davis.

"The Mac Davis Show" is not the only musical-variety series to emerge at midseason. NBC will bring back the Smothers Brothers for a Monday hour beginning Jan. 13.

CBS will offer "Tony Orlando and Dawn" starting Dec. 4, and "Cher" on Feb. 16. Ironically, "The Sonny Comedy Hour" on ABC was one of the season's casualties.

Dazed Soldier Just Appeared Thousands Of Miles From Home

One cannot accept so-called history too easily nor, on the other hand, should one reject it too easily.

What, then, can we make of a story such as this?

He was in a dazed condition. Curiously, he wore the uniform of a guard of the governor's palace in Manila, the capital of the Philippines, thousands of miles from Mexico City.

The soldier said his name was Gil Perez. He claimed that a few minutes before his abrupt arrival he had been guarding the governor's palace in Manila. He had no idea what had happened to him, he said, or how he had gotten to Mexico, except that it was "faster than the cock crows."

Under questioning, Perez repeated his weird story and couldn't be shaken. His actual testimony was taken down by a Friar Gasper de San Augustin who wrote a complete chronicle of the unusual event.

"My name is Gil Perez," the soldier testified. "As to standing sentry here, I am doing as nearly as possible what I was ordered to do. I was ordered this morning to mount guard at the doors of the governor's palace in Manila.

"I know very well that this is not the governor's palace and evidently I am not in Manila. Why or how that may be, I know not. But here I am, and this is a palace of some kind, so I am doing my duty as nearly as possible."

Then, as though passing on a bit of news, the soldier remarked: "Last night the governor of the Philippines, His Excellency Don Gomez Perez Dasmarinas, had his head cracked with an axe and is dead of it."

Because the local viceroy and his council smelled the devil at work in the strange affair, they turned Perez over to the Holy Inquisition. He was jailed but no cross-examination, even under threat of torture, could shake his story.

Two months later a ship arrived from the Philippines which brought not only confirmation of the governor's death from an axe-wound on the day before Gil Perez suddenly appeared in Mexico but also a passenger who recognized Perez. The passenger said that Perez was a member of the palace guard in Manila and had been on duty there the day before he vanished.

What was it that happened to Gil Perez?

Well, for some time now we've been able to send handwriting and photographs through space in a matter of seconds. What's transmitted in these cases is not the original but a copy of it. But science fiction writers have described devices in the world of the future capable of electronically dissolving an object into its atoms, transmitting them through space, and reassembling them at the point of arrival. This is called teleportation.

Is it conceivable that in very rare cases something like this may already have happened in nature?

Or is the account of Gil Perez mere hearsay masquerading as history?

Undelivered Mail Found

Three firemen suffered minor injuries trying to extinguish the fire Saturday night at the two-and-one-half story home of Robert Santangelo, a substitute letter carrier for several towns in the area.

Postal inspector John DaSilva said the mail would fill three small trucks and the job of sorting it out will begin today. He said no charges have been filed against Santangelo.

Benefit Dance Ends In Melee

EUREKA (UPI) — It started as a brawl between three women attending a benefit dance for retarded children and ended up as a rock and bottle throwing melee with police lobbing three tear gas conisters into the crowd and arresting 15 persons.

Eureka police said about 2,000 persons attended the Lions Club dance at the Eureka Municipal Auditorium and early yesterday about 600 persons began to gather outside the building.

"First three women got into a fight, and officers at the scene broke it up — then two other fights broke out between two sets of men," officers said. "Before you knew it, about 100 people were hitting one another."

Forest Is Helped By Tree Harvest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Don't feel guilty about hurting the forest by cutting down a Christmas tree this year.,

The Western Timber Association said most Christmas trees are grown on plantations just for that purpose and the cutting of wild trees can help the forest to grow better.

"In order to improve the overall health and growth of the forest, the young trees must be weeded just like a garden," the association said. "When Christmas trees ere cut, either in the wild or on plantations, they are usually cut above the bottom whorl of green branches, which, in most cone-bearing evergreens, will turn upward and grow into a new tree," the timber association said.

The group notes that the federal government is among the nation's fresh Christmas tree merchants. "Several thousand trees were sold from California national forests this year with revenue going to the federal treasury and a share to the counties," the association said.

Harvesting on the national forests is done by professional cutters under contract with the government. Forest Service experts determine the exact location where cutting is to be done, and only a certain number of pre-designated trees are removed fom the area.

"The Forest Service only oncasionally sells individual permits to local residents in isolated areas," the association notes. But, officials added that even if individuals were allowed to bring their ax into the forest, nicer trees "may usually be cut more conveniently from a 'choose and cut' plantation."

Pines, distinguished by their relatively long needles found in bundles of two, three or five.

Douglas fir, the most popular Christmas tree with short, soft, fragrant needles that grow out all around the twigs, and cigar shaped buds.

True firs, with needles between one and two inches long, appearing to grow from the sides of the twigs, and are stiff and rounded on the ends.,

Spruces, withshort, stiff, sharp needles.

Hunt Made Little Display Of Wealth

DALLAS (UPI) — Despite possessing one of the world's great fortunes, Haroldson LaFayette (H.L.) Hunt was as frugal with his money as he was conservative in his politics.

With an estimated fortune of $1.5 to $5 billion, he drove only a medium priced car, bought ready-made suits and reported six days a week to a plain office with his lunch in a paper bag.

He once told friends he "felt like a sucker" paying $3 for a hotel breakfast.

Hunt, 85, who died Friday, was to be buried today in a service to fit his lifestyle — simple and low key.

"We do not discuss what families pay for funerals," said a funeral director handling the services. "Anyway, how is it possible to say what is a proper funeral for a man of Mr. Hunt's means. You can say he will have a nice funeral service."

The body was to be moved at noon today to the First Baptist Church, where Hunt was a member. The pastor, Dr. W. A. Criswell, was to conduct the funeral service with burial beside the grave of his first wife, Lydia Bunker Hunt.

Hunt was born Feb. 17, 1889, in Ramsey, Ill., where his father, an Arkansas Confederate veteran, had fled because he feared the terrors of post Civil War reconstruction in the South.

Hunt parlayed a $5,000 inheritance from his father into billions through land and oil leases. He began with a small Arkansas farm and then branched into oil leases in the rich East Texas fields and eventually into the Mideast.

He refused to invest in firms he did not own and as a result much of his money remained in real estate. By some estimates, he is one of the largest individual landowners in the world.

Hunt would never say whether he had as much money as people thought, or indeed if he even knew how much he was really worth.

"Lots of people have talked flatteringly of how rich I am," Hunt said. "I don't want to disappoint them by denying anything."

He was archconservative and sponsored the radio-television programs "Facts Forum" and "Lifeline." He also wrote a newspaper column and numerous conservative-oriented books.

"In 1933 I became obsessed with the danger of a Communist takeover," Hunt said in 1971. "I have devoted fully half my life to avert it."

Hunt is survived by his second wife, Ruth, formerly of Idabel, Okla., five daughters, five sons, 25 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. The most widely known of his children probably is Lamar Hunt, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs football team, and oilman Bunker Hunt.

Flag Complaint Before Council

A request from a resident that Mill Valley stop flying United Nations flags simultaneously with American Flags on patriotic holidays will be discussed today by the city council at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Alice McCabe and members of a local American Legion chapter have complained to the council that the city has violated flag protocol in the way it has flown the two flags on downtown sidewalks.

Mrs. McCabe says she has filed a complaint with the state attorney general.

Big Sandwich Just Too Much

Paul Turko whipped up a 40-foot sandwich of meat, cheese and lettuce. A hungry crowd ate 37 feet of it, but couldn't quite finish the rest.

Turko, who claimed a world's record for the longest sandwich, said he took in more than $300 from the hungry eaters. He said he will donate the money to charity, minus $80 for the ingredients.

WHEN THE GOING GETS TOUGH

Carter Cox had to get off and push his bike when the going got tough yesterday during the West Coast Open cyclo-cross bicycle race in Mill Valley. Twenty-six riders took part in the event, which consisted of 20 laps on a half-mile circuit. Another 150 competed in a shorter moto-cross.

NARROW PATH — Tom Vaughan (243) of the Marin Bike Club led Jim Gentes of San Jose on a particularly narrow part of the cyclo-cross course. Behind Gentes came Ken Speals, who later had an accident near the same spot.

THE WINNER — Lawrence Malone, 21 of Santa Cruz, talked to a reporter while holding the flowers and cup that signified his victory in the cyclo-cross. Malone, who rides for the Turin Bicycle Society, was one of the favorites to win.

Is It Raiders' Super Bowl Year?

OAKLAND — After watching what the Oakland Raiders did to a good New England Patriots team yesterday, one gets the distinct feeling that this will be the Raiders' year.

They have already clinched a spot in the NFL playoffs, but they have been there before, reaching the playoffs every season but once since 1967. Getting there is nothing new to Raider fans who have watched year after year. And getting there is nothing new to the players. They are accustomed to it.

IT'S WHAT HAPPENS when they get there. That ultimate loss which keeps them from that Super Bowl champion's ring and all the prestige that goes with it. But this may be the year.

That 41-26 victory over New England was evidence this Raider team is loaded with offensive strength. When quarterback Kenny Stabler saw that he wasn't going to beat them with the run, he went to the air. And how he went to the air! Sixteen completions in 21 passes, 251 yards and four touchdowns. Two of his passes were underthrown and were intercepted, but you can't be perfect.

"THAT WAS a pretty good game for us," Raider coach John Madden said in understatement. "Stabler threw four touchdown passes and that's a pretty good day. He had good pass protection, too."

Stabler said he learned a lot from the films of last week's New England 27-17 win over Baltimore. And he learned a lot about the Patriots' right cornerback, Ron Bolton. Because of it, Bolton spent a lot of time looking at the back of wide receiver Cliff Branch's jersey.

About the films, Stabler said, "We saw they could be beat on that side. We always look for Branch to go man on man."

BRANCH ENDED up catching six passes for 138 yards and two touchdowns. Sixty-seven of those yards and one of the touchdowns came on the Raiders' second play of the game. Branch ran right by Bolton about the time Stabler let loose the ball. He caught it on the 26 and sprinted the rest of the way to the end zone. It was a bomb of beauty.

"Kenny laid the ball on there perfectly," said Branch, a world class sprinter from University of Colorado who has run the 100-yard dash in 9.2. "I looked up and there was the ball." And there was the touchdown.

"He's so fast you really have to get the ball out there," Stabler was saying just a few feet from Branch's dressing cubicle. Two times Stabler didn't get the ball far enough and instead of Branch catching the ball Bolton did.

Stabler got a game ball for his offensive show and huge (6-foot-7, 265 pounds) end Bubba Smith got one for defense. He was tough on Patriot quarterback Jim Plunkett all afternoon. And the man who had to face him, tackle Tom Neville, had a rough time of it.

WHEN ASKED if he thought the game was his best this year," Smith grunted and said, "No. I hope it's in front of me."

Last time Bubba won a game ball it was in this same Oakland Coliseum, but he wasn't playing for the Raiders. It was in 1971 before the trade for Ray Chester, and he was playing for the Baltimore Colts. In that game, the Colts whipped Oakland, 37-14, and went on to edge out the Raiders for the wild card berth in the playoffs. That was the only time the Raiders haven't reached the playoffs since the winning string started in '67.

NO ROAD — When the path disappeared at one point in the cyclo-cross, John Uhte and other competitors did the only logical thing — they picked up their bikes and kept going. Uhte, from Larkspur, finished in the top 10.

Another Routine Win For Stabler, Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) — It was another routine game for Ken Stabler and another routine victory for the Oakland Raiders.

Stabler, right up there among the best quarterbacks in the National Football League, threw four scoring passes yesterday in a 41-26 rout of the young New England Patriots. That gave him 24 on the season, but he said later he didn't know how many he had and he cared even less.

"I don't keep track of my statistics," he said. "All I care about is winning."

The triumph gave the American Football Conference West champions a 10-2 record and dropped the Patriots to 7-5 and probably out of the running for a wild card berth in the playoffs. But Coach Chuck Fairbanks isn't conceding anything.

He told his players after the loss, "I'm a little disappointed but not discouraged. You played your best against maybe the best team in the league. We aren't out of the running yet."

The Buffalo Bills beat Baltimore to improve to a 9-3 in the AFC East while the 8-3 Miami Dolphins play tonight against the Cincinnati Bengals. A Miami defeat would keep the Pats in the chase but just barely.

Season-ending injuries to seven players, including top running back Sam Cunningham and star receiver Reggie Rucker, have taken away the Pats' best weapons. Still, they made a game of it against Oakland until some late-game mistakes, plus Stabler's hot throwing hand, cost them.

Stabler, completing 16 of 21 throws for 251 yards, threw 67 and 19 yards to Cliff Branch, who has scored 11 TDs this year, 12 to Fred Biletnikoff and five to Bob Moore.

Harold Hart ran seven yards and Skip Thomas 22 with an intercepted pass to account for the other Oakland scores.

Jim Plunkett, back playing in his home area, completed 17 of 34 passes for 281 yards and two TDs but the Raider defense converted two of three interceptions on the Pats' quarterback into touchdowns.

Plunkett ran 37 yards to set up New England's first touchdown and hurt his leg in the process. Indirectly, it led to the Pats' loss because it took away Plunkett's ability to maneuver, and the Raider defense knew it right away.

Not many. That's why the Raiders are 10-2 and playing out the schedule en route to the playoffs.

A BROWN DAY

Ed Intercepts, Ken Runs It In

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Talk about having mud in your eye...well, rookie safety Eddie Brown can go you one better than that. He had it in both eyes and a few other places, too, but it didn't bother him a bit.

"Naw, I didn't mind it at all," said Brown, who intercepted a Tom Owen pass with just over five minutes left to play yesterday to set up a one-yard touchdown run by Ken Brown, which gave the Cleveland Browns their first shutout in two years, a 7-0 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

"I had to reach out to get it, but I saw it comin' to me," said Eddie. "Then splat! I couldn't see a thing. I knew I caught the ball, but I couldn't see where I was going because my eyes were full of mud.

"So I just tucked the ball away with one hand, started scraping the mud from my face with the other hand and took off downfield," Eddie said.

Brown, in his first starting role, scampered 24 yards from the San Francisco 48 to the 49ers' 24 with the second of his three pickoffs of the chilly afternoon. After scatback Greg Pruitt bulled over center for five yards on the next play, Ken Brown followed with a 17-yard burst over left guard to put the

Some Warm Assurance For Two Playoff-Bound Teams

Vikings, Cardinals Advancing

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The last month of National Football League regular season play began yesterday with ice, snow, rain, freezing winds, about 168,000 no-shows, and, for St. Louis and Minnesota, the warming assurance that they've clinched playoff berths.

Not since the winter of 1948 have the St. Louis Cardinals participated in post-season play and yesterday they backed into a berth despite losing 17-13 to Kansas City when Philadelphia defeated Green Bay 36-14. The Cards, 9-3 and leading Washington by a game in the National Football Conference East, were assured of at least a wild card playoff spot as the team with the best intradivisional record.

Minnesota's 29-9 triumph over the New Orleans Saints gave the Vikings the NFC's Central Division championship. Los Angeles clinched the NFC West last weekend.

Oakland, which clinched the AFC West two weeks ago, seriously damaged New England's chances of a playoff spot by beating the Patriots 41-26. The Pats' competition for the AFC wild card berth, Miami and Cincinnati, will square off against each other tonight on national television. Pittsburgh, which was upset 13-10 by Houston, still claims a slim lead over the Bengals in the AFC Central Division. (Tonight's game will be televised in the Bay Area on Channels 7 and 11 starting at 6 o'clock.)

five-foot snowstorm is cause for

The harsh weather on the first day of December kept attendance down around the league, especially at three "meaningless" games where no playoff positions could be affected. In a contest between two last place teams, Chicago beat the New York Giants 16-13 at Soldier Field where 36,951 ticket purchases chose to stay away and only 18,802 braved the rain and snow. The Los Angeles Rams battered the Falcons 30-7 in Atlanta as 18,648 fans showed up and 40,202 stayed away. Snow slowed down the game in Cleveland where the Browns edged San Francisco 7-0 as 24,559 fans watched and 29,365 ticket holders stayed away.

Attendance was down, though, even at the "important" games. St. Louis expected a crowd of 51,184 for the battle against neighboring Kansas City but only 41,863 came to sit in the snow. Pittsburgh's game against the Oilers was sold out to about 50,000 but just 41,195 showed up in the freezing rain. Rain and 45-mph winds made play difficult in Philadelphia where 42,030 came and 24,023 stayed snug at home.

Minnesota's division clincher was witnessed by 44,202 while 4,298 stayed away and the New York Jets' 27-14 victory over San Diego was seen by 44,888 rain-soaked fans while about 15,000 failed to show.

Only at Oakland, where weather doesn't usually affect attendance, and at Buffalo, where anything less than a five foot snow storm is cause for celebration, were the stadiums filled. Playing in mere 29-degree weather against gusty winds, the Bills scored a 6-0 victory over Baltimore while 79,540 watched in relative comfort.

Chiefs 17 Cards 13

Mike Sensibaugh and Willie Lanier each intercepted Jim Hart passes to set up Kansas City touchdowns and keep St. Louis from clinching the NFC East title.

Vikings 29 Saints 9

Fran Tarkenton tossed three touchdown passes, two to John Gilliam and one to Stu Voigt to lead Minnesota.

Eagles 36 Packers 14

Bills 6 Colts 0

Oilers 13 Steelers 10

Jets 27 Chargers 14

Rams 30 Falcons 7

Dave Elmendorf and Charlie Stukes both made two pass interceptions in the third period to give Los Angeles an easy victory.

Bears 16 Giants 13

POW — Bears' Don Rives was kicked in the chest while blocking a punt by New York Giants' Dave Jennings during the first quarter yesterday in Chicago. The Bears recovered the football deep in New York territory, but the play was nullified by an offside penalty against Chicago. (UPI Telephoto)

Marin Tars Drop Opener In Basketball

PLEASANT HILL — The College of Marin Tars suffered from foul trouble and 30 points by Terry Richardson as they lost their opening game of the 1974-75 basketball season, 76-66, to Diablo Valley Saturday night.

Forward John Channel had 23 points to lead the Tars, and guard Mike Dinehart added 16. But they both picked up their fourth fouls early in the second half, and coach Jim Webster was forced to rest them until the final minutes.

"Our lack of experience really showed," said Webster. "Channell's our only returning player, and when he went out, we lost a lot of scoring power." The 6-foot-4 Channell also led Marin in rebounding with 14.

Richardson was Diablo Valley's only real threat, but he was real enough as he sank 12 field goals and six free throws.

The difference in the game, aside from Richardson, was on the foul line where Diablo Valley had an 11-point edge. Marin outscored the Vikings from the floor by one basket.

JACKSON'S WARNING ON TRADE

OAKLAND (AP) — Slugging outfielder Reggie Jackson, who earned a reported $140,000 last year with the world champion Oakland A's, says any baseball team trading for him had better talk to him first.

"Before any club makes a deal for me they'd better call me — they might not be able to afford the postage," said Jackson.

Jackson, a former most valuable player in the American League, said he's willing to go to any club that can afford him and will be a contender for the championship.

Attles Showing He's Optimistic

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors hold a 3½-game division lead with a quarter of the National Basketball Association season completed and their coach is showing signs of optimism.

"We're not there yet, but if we stay healthy we're going to get there," Coach Al Attles said yesterday of the Warriors who will play the New Orleans Jazz at the Oakland Coliseum tomorrow night.

With Rick Barry meshing 43 points, the Warriors defeated the Los Angeles Lakers 128-118 Saturday.

Brown Day For Cleveland

ball on the one. Ken then plowed through the defensive line on the next handoff from Mike Phipps for the score, and Don Cockroft booted the extra point.

"It was a great day out there for our defense with all the mud and snow they had going against them in addition to the other team," said Nick Skorich, head coach of the Browns, who are 4-8 for the season, just like the 49ers.

It looked like Owen was playing for Cleveland, not San Francisco. He completed six of 26 passes for 74 yards to his men and five of five to Cleveland's defensive secondary for 66 return yards, including two catches by Clarence Scott.

"Our defense played well, but the offense just handed away those interceptions," said a distraught 49ers' head coach Dick Nolan. "We had plenty of chances to win, but we didn't.

"It's hard to say whether the field conditions and the weather had anything to do with the outcome of the game because both teams faced the same problems," Nolan said. "It's pretty obvious that the Browns' safety blitzes hurt us a few times. The interception that set up the touchdown and the 17-yard run (by Ken Brown) just before the score were the key plays of the day."

The game, played in 33-degree weather with 15 mile-per-hour winds swirling the heavy falling snow about Municipal Stadium, had two other highlights.

Wide receiver Dan Abramowicz of San Francisco, in a bid to tie the game, caught an 18-yard pass with 10 seconds to play to extend his consecutive game league pass reception record to 103. The pass moved the ball to Cleveland's 28, but Eddie Brown killed the 49ers' hopes with an interception on the final play to end the game.

Had the Browns and 49ers battled to a scoreless tie, which appeared to be the case until Cleveland scored with 3:21 left to play, it would have been the first one in the National Football League since 1943 when the Giants and Lions did it.

Although the Browns won, club officials were displeased with the attendance at the 1974 season home finale because there were more no-shows than fans. There were 53,924 tickets sold, but just 24,559 showed up — leaving 29,365 who paid to see but did not view the game.

Marin Mites Win In Hockey

The Marin Amateur Hockey Club Mites won, but three other Marin teams lost in Northern California Amateur Hockey League action over the weekend.

The Mites defeated Sacramento, 5-2 yesterday in Sacramento. Peter Schank led the way with three goals.

Yanks May Have Cleared Way For Trades

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The New York Yankees, baseball's busiest wheeler-dealers for the past 12 months, have fired off the first salvo of the annual winter meetings and it immediately opened up possible avenues for a flurry of new deals.

Not even waiting for the majority of big league executives to unpack their bags yesterday, the Yankees purchased utilityman Bob Oliver from the Baltimore Orioles in what would appear to be only a "fringe" deal. But the acquisition of Oliver, who has played a good deal of third base in recent years, suddenly makes the current Yankee third baseman, Graig Nettles, expendable.

"People get the wrong impression about the way we feel. We're not eager to trade," said Reds' General Manager Bob Howsam. "But if we do, we can go three ways.

"We can trade an established star like Perez, keep what we have and hope for some of our younger players to develop, or we can trade some of our young prospects for a player we need."

While Yankees President Gabe Paul will undoubtedly be talking to the Reds, other reports had the Yankees close to a deal with Montreal that would send outfielder Roy White to the Expos for a pitcher — either Mike Torrez or Steve Renko.

Aside from the early speculation stirred by the Yankees, the big talk of the meetings is still the availability of Oakland A's superstar rightfielder Reggie Jackson. A's owner Charles O. Finley is not present (as usual) at the meetings but he already has offerred Jackson to the Phillies for third baseman Mike Schmidt and second baseman Dave Cash, and to the Orioles for second baseman Bobby Grich and pitcher Ross Grimsley. Both deals were rejected.

The reason for Finley's willingness to trade the man generally conceded to be the backbone of the three straight A's world championship teams is Jackson's salary. The American League's most valuable player in 1973, Jackson draws $140,000 and is expected to go through arbitration to up that figure to the $750,000 range spread over three years.

Sandwiched in among all the preliminary trade talk was the question of expansion — certain to become a lively item before the meetings conclude on Friday. In addition to representatives from Toronto, Seattle, Washington and Denver, former Kansas City Royals General Manager Cedric Tallis headed up a local group hoping to place a club in the still-to-be-completed $160 million Superdome here.

The first order of business today was the minor league draft.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Taking A Look At USC's Remarkable Turnaround

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Southern California ended Notre Dame's hopes for a national championship and instead injected itself into consideration by producing what quite probably was the most remarkable turnaround in college football history.

Blown out 24-0 with halftime approaching, the Trojans turned around and scored eight touchdowns in 18 minutes against a Notre Dame team that had allowed only eight TDs all season, and crushed the Irish 55-24 Saturday.

Anthony Davis, who singlehandedly beat the Irish two years ago by scoring six touchdowns, had USC's first four on Saturday including the 102-yard kickoff return that ignited a 35-point third quarter — the worst quarter in ND's proud history.

Pat Haden also passed for four touchdowns and 225 yards for the Trojans.

A victory by Notre Dame would have set up this season's "game of the century" for the national championship in the Orange Bowl New Year's night, where the Irish meet No. 1 ranked Alabama.

Instead, the winner of the Rose Bowl game between the No. 4 Trojans and No. 2 Ohio State stands to collect the national title should Notre Dame, ranked No. 5 before Saturday's debacle, knock off Alabama, hardly an unlikely prospect considering 'Bama hasn't won a bowl game since the 1966 season.

Southern Cal's 55 points were the most scored against Notre Dame in 30 years.

In the only other games of any significance on Saturday, the final day of the regular college football season, Baylor won the Southwest Conference title outright for the first time in 50 years by beating Rice 24-3 and Oklahoma completed its first all-winning season since the glory days under Bud Wilkinson, crushing Oklahoma State 44-13.

At Los Angeles, Davis' other touchdowns came on runs of six and four yards and a seven-yard pass from Haden, J. K. McKay, the coach's son, caught two of Haden's other TD passes.

Baylor, which will make its first-ever Cotton Bowl game appearance against Penn State, got 134 yards rushing and a touchdown from Steve Beaird who became the school's first 1,000-yard runner.

Oklahoma, which isn't going to a bowl again this year because of a National Collegiate Athletic Association probation, overcame a 13-10 deficit late in the third period with five TDs to finish its year at 11-0. Joe Washington and Steve Davis each got two of the five late scores.

Navy made it back-to-back shutouts over Army, 19-0, going-nowhere Tulsa, the Missouri Valley Conference champ, embarassed Houston, headed for the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl, 30-14, Arizona blanked Arizona State 10-0, Tampa crushed Florida A&M 35-10, Florida beat Miami of Florida 31-7 and LSU ripped Utah 35-10 in other major college games Saturday.

Scores in the NCAA college division playoffs were Louisiana Tech 10 Western Carolina 7, Delaware 35 Youngstown State 14, Ithaca 27 Slippery Rock 14, Central Michigan 20 Boise State 6, Nevada-Las Vegas 35 Alcorn State 22, and Central of Iowa 17 Evansville 16.

AT MARIN CATHOLIC

Potent Lincoln To Play

One of the top prep teams in Northern California and several of the top players in the Bay Area will be on display Wednesday through Saturday in the first Northern California Classic invitational basketball tournament at Marin Catholic.

Eight teams, including Drake, San Rafael and Marin Catholic from the Marin County Athletic League, will take part in the single-elimination tourney; Arcata, Hogan of Vallejo, Vintage of Napa and Lincoln and Lowell of San Francisco complete the field.

Lincoln is the powerhouse, bringing back four starters from last year's team that won the Academic Athletic Association and went on to finish fifth in the Tournament of Champions. The Mustangs are led by all-city, all-TOC forward Ricky Lee, and center Derrick McCray, the team's leading scorer and rebounder last year. Both stand 6-foot-4.

Lowell, which is expected to give Lincoln a fight this year in the AAA, is powered by 6-3 forward Eric Gilberg, brother of former Lowell great Mark Gilberg. As a first-team, all-city choice last year, Eric scored more than 20 points a game.

Host team Marin Catholic should be one of the strongest teams in the tourney. The Wildcats have three starters back from last season, including all-MCAL forward 6-3 Mike Mahoney. As a junior, he averaged more than 18 points a game. Forward Gary Johnson and guard Terry Ahern are the other returning starters.

San Rafael, defending champs of the MCAL, bring a young, inexperienced team into the tourney. Senior forward Mike Ellingson, 6-2, and 5-9 guard Eric Wheeler are the only returning lettermen, but the Bulldogs have scoring potential in 6-3 junior forward John Soares and 5-11 junior guard Steve Colombo.

The Drake Pirates will be the smallest team in the tourney, but they should give a good account of themselves. Junior forward Walt Gillespie, the only returning letterman and the team's tallest player at 6-1, combines with 5-10 center Mel Judson and 5-9 guard Mike Ghiringhelli for a balanced scoring attack.

Hogan, of the North Bay League, is led by 6-3 forward Kelvin Johnson, a good shooter, and 6-3, 215-pound muscleman Bill Nunes at center. Nunes was fullback-linebacker for the Spartans' football team.

The Vintage Crushers also bring a tall center, 6-6 Colin Craft. He is considered one of the most promising players on the team, while most of the scoring comes from 6-3 senior Harvey Anderson and 6-1 senior Gordon Neilsen.

Opening round games will be played for the first two nights. San Rafael meets Vintage on Wednesday at 7 o'clock, followed by Drake vs. Lincoln at 8:30. On Thursday, Arcata and Lowell play at 7, followed by Marin Catholic vs. Hogan at 8:30.

Four games will be played Friday, and four more on Saturday with the consolation game set for 3 p.m. and the championship for 8:30.

SEALS' COACH SAYS

'It's A Relief To Win On Road'

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — The California Golden Seals snapped their road jinx last night and, according to their coach, gained a big psychological lift when they defeated the Washington Capitals 5-2.

"It's a relief to win on the road finally," said California coach Marshall Johnston. "It will definitely give the team a lift."

The Seals play next in St. Louis tomorrow night against the Blues, now guided by former Seals coach Garry Young.

Stan Weir opened the Seals' scoring at 8:47 in the first period, and Dave Hrechkosy followed with the first of two goals at 13:30. The early 2-0 lead pleased Johnston.

"That early two-goal lead gave the team a psychological lift which we really need to win on the road," the California coach said.

Washington's first goal, scored by Mike Marson at 17:35 in the first period, cut the California lead to one. But Hrechkosy then scored his ninth goal of the season, and it proved to be the game-winner for California.

Score by periods:

Too Many Hospital Board Resignations

For the seventh time in a decade, a director of Marin Hospital District has resigned during a term to which he or she was elected.

Latest to quit the board in mid-term is Dr. Bradford Simmons, who resigned last week effective Jan. 1. Dr. Simmons is leaving Marin to serve as physician at a Navajo Indian Reservation hospital.

Resignations during terms to which persons were elected occur now and then on all public bodies. Some — like County Supervisor Michael Wornum — resign because they are moving on to higher office. Some — like Dr. Simmons — resign because they are leaving the county, city or district. Some just get disgusted and quit.

MARIN HOSPITAL District has been especially plagued by such regisnations, as seven of them within a decade attest.

On Jan. 4, 1965, Ernest N. Kettenhofen and Paul F. Kent resigned from the hospital board. Kettenhofen had been elected to the county board of supervisors. Kent was being transferred out of Marin by his employer.

In December, 1966, Hadden W. Roth, who had been elected just over a year earlier, resigned on his appointment to the Marin Municipal Court bench. (On May 20, 1970, Roth resigned his judgeship. His term was to run until the end of 1972.)

On Jan. 24, 1967, Herbert F. Brandt, who had been appointed to succeed Kent and then elected in November, 1966, to a four-year term, resigned.

In March, 1969, Irving D. Chapman, who has been appointed to succeed Kettenhofen and won election to a four-year term in 1968, resigned.

On April 25, 1972, Dr. Gwendolyn M. Campion resigned while serving her second term, which had until Dec. 31 to run. Dr. Simmons was named to the board to succeed Dr. Campion, then won election in November, 1972.

On May 28 of this year, George E. Croke, who had been appointed to succeed Roth, resigned, with two years and seven months remaining of a term to which he was elected in 1972.

OBVIOUSLY, things sometimes occur which make it necessary for public officials to quit during their terms — and we don't mean impeachment. Business transfers and failing health are among such reasons.

But a person should not accept appointment to an office if he does not intend to fill out the term. And he should certainly not seek election unless he has every intention of filling out the term.

Those who seek appointment or election to public office with the idea of running for some higher office before their terms expire do an injustice to the people. Voters should think twice about electing them to higher office when they are deserting one to which they were elected.

Those who seek appointment or election without any commitment to complete the term likewise are doing an injustice.

Accepting a public office involves a commitment to carry out the terms of the appointment or election. A better reason than personal inconvenience is needed to justify quitting before a term is completed.

Flournoy As UC President? What Does Job Entail?

By EARL G. WATERS

An interest in the job of president of the University of California has been indicated by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, who was narrowly defeated in his bid for governor last month. The job will become vacant next July with the retirement of Charles J. Hitch.

Without throwing any rocks at Flournoy, who has a solid background in education, holding a doctorate and, before getting into politics, having followed a career in education as a professor at Claremont, it seems appropriate to examine the requirements for the post. In the overall view, Flournoy is probably better qualified than any others who have served both at UC and at other universities around the country.

JUDGING FROM PAST selections, the possession of a doctorate was not thought to be necessary. Nor has a record as an educator seemed to be essential. Hitch had neither. Robert Gordon Sproul, considered by many to have been the best president the university ever had, had neither. Prior to his selection he had served as comptroller.

In looking around the nation at those who have served as university presidents, one is reminded of Dwight D. Eisenhower, neither a notable scholar nor educator. Harold E. Stassen, the ex-governor of Minnesota who became a perennial contender for the presidency, also served as a university president. Outside of being a politician, his background was that of a lawyer.

It is not known what contributions Eisenhower made while serving briefly as president of Columbia. The fact is that he was on leave of absence most of the time of his occupancy of that office. Perhaps, like Hitch, who was questioned about an extended leave from Berkeley for the purpose of a junket in the Orient and responded that "my staff . . . was and is splendidly capable of operating the university without me for five weeks," Eisenhower felt his staff also "splendidly capable" of operating the university without him.

THIS MAY RAISE the question in some minds as to why the need for a president anyway? Each of the nine campuses of UC is, in many respects, a separate institution governed by its own chancellor.

So the question of what exactly is a university president supposed to do is a good one. Certainly before the selection of the "best qualified person" can be made, there has to be an agreement as to what services he will be expected to perform. Should he stand as a symbol of educational inspiration? For that one would look for an outstanding scholar. Should he be a top administrator, schooled in business management to provide great efficiency in the handling of the hundreds of millions of dollars which are poured annually into the university operation? Should he be a person politically adept to cope with the Legislature? Or should he be a skilled promoter who can entice philanthropists to greater endowments for the school?

It is probably too much to expect the regents will concentrate on finding an able person dedicated to making the university the great center of learning that it lays claim to being.

But whatever decisions are made, the regents should take note that the people are not overly happy with the largesse which they have bestowed upon Hitch in the form of a palatial mansion, servants, chauffeur, and a lavish tax-free expense account. Luxury living for favored officials hardly seems consistent with the educational purposes for which the taxpayers shell out their hard-earned dollars. With the claimed shortage of funds for UC operations and the hard times being faced by the taxpayers in a period of mass unemployment and inflation, it would seem time for the regents to take stock of what is really needed in a UC president rather than how many fringe benefits they can heap upon one.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND:

Once-Violent Campuses Now Safest Places

The University of California includes nine campuses; it serves more than 120,000 students; it contains buildings and property that exceed $2.5 billion in value — altogether one of the world's largest universities.

Time was when the Berkeley campus alone was the recurring scene of violent protests and radical activists.

Not anymore.

To date the University of California in all campuses has completed its third year without a single riot or major confrontation.

Further, the campuses have become the safest places to live anywhere in California.

NO SLOWDOWN IN CRIME. Rape, the most under-reported of all crimes, is rising. In 1973 there were 51,000 cases reported to the FBI, and in the first six months of this year rape figures were 8 per cent higher.

This is a sharper increase than for any other crime of violence, including murder and robbery, which are up 5 per cent and aggravated assault, up 7 per cent.

LABOR'S POLITICAL CLOUT. It is more powerful than ever. In the congressional elections it was a bid spender — more than $4.3 million contributed to candidates — and a big winner.

COPE, the political arm of the AFL-CIO, endorsed 295 House and Senate candidates and had a victory rate of 70 per cent; two years ago, 60 per cent.

The United Auto Workers endorsed 350 candidates and was 72 per cent successful.

NATIONAL GUARD UNDER STIFF RESTRAINTS. Despite the acquittal of all eight guardsmen in the Kent State case, the National Guard is not easing its new rules on rifle fire in handling protest groups.

The rule in most states permits no shooting until other measures to restrain violence are tried and found inadequate.

No change is contemplated in the directive to guardsmen not to load their rifles when preparing to confront protest marches.

FORD ADVISED INFLATION RECEDING. Economists, who are looking some months ahead, see the tide of rising prices ebbing, the rate of inflation dropping.

This doesn't mean that the economic crisis is passing; it simply enters a different phase — a stage in which the policies of the government would be focused primarily on economic slowdown and unemployment.

ADMINISTRATION MAY REAPPRAISE ITS PROGRAM. There are significantly differing views within the ranks of its own economic officials. While some hold that the Ford policies are "right on target," others are advising the president that the target itself is shifting and that different measures are needed.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON:

Oil Makes Difference In Villa Hermosa

The latitude, elevation and jungle humidity remain the same, but it has changed since before the war. The reason is simple and overwhelming.

In 1938, Graham Greene came to the state of Tabasco, not far from Guatemala, near the root of Yucatan, arriving in Villa Hermosa on a rackety river boat from the coast. He was not wild about it.

"IN VILLA HERMOSA," he wrote, "there is nothing to do all the long Sundays that go on and on but sit in Victorian rocking chairs, swinging back and forth waiting for the sunset and the mosquitoes. The hideous vultures group themselves on the roofs like pigeons . . .

"Nothing to do but drink gassy fruit drinks (no miracle in this godless state will turn this aerated water into wine) and watch the horrifying abundance of just life. . . Somewhere there was a storm, but the air in Villa Hermosa never cleared. . .

"No hope anywhere. . ."

WELL, ON SUNDAY in late '74 there is more to do than rock and wait. The churches and the cathedral are rebuilt and functioning. The vultures are still around, true, but they are not hideous, just rodinary black vultures with short tails and fast-flapping wings like those you find from the Carolinas southward.

About the gassy fruit drinks and eating-drinking in general, leave it at noting that in the central market the abundance of life is horrifying only if you involuntarily hallucinate the hepatitis and dysentery bugs swarming over the papaya, tomatoes and fly-speckled meat.

Somewhere there is a storm, but the air is still hot and heavy.

The main difference is that there is hope. It is based on oil.

GREENE NEVER SAW the barges cutting up and down canals, working back and forth from oil rigs where not long ago the only signs of man were clearings with thatched huts and humpback cattle. He never saw the stacks flaring on the horizon, nor the Pemex (Mexican petroleum) compound in town where a guard sits vigilant with an M-1, while across the street a wedding party celebrates at the transportation-construction workers union hall.

For anyone reading this, the most meaningful touch in the short run is that guard with the M-1. American access to the oil and even the full facts about it are guarded as closely as life itself. Which is what it can mean to the Mexican economy.

MEXICO RUNS a steady foreign trade deficit because of its huge imports from the United States. Although it remains mainly an agricultural country, it even runs an unfavorable balance with our country on food products.

This is an intolerable situation for a nation whose population is booming and hungry. And the potential to turn it around lies beneath the soggy surface of Tabasco and adjacent Chiapas. These are not the only oil fields in Mexico, and there is gossip in every businessmen's bar in the capital about still more in Baja California, in Chihuahua and elsewhere. But these are the big, deep fields that promise to put Mexico in a class with the dollar-drenched Middle Eastern nations.

If, that is, there is truly as much oil here as even the more moderate reports say. The wildest of them put the total at perhaps 40 billion barrels. Most estimates fall between 5 billion and 20 billion, which would mean Mexico could boost its oil exports from about 60,000 barrels a day currently to 200,000 within two years. Most of that would flow to the thirsty United States, at the world price rather than any preferential rate.

So if Graham Greene would find Villa Hermosa changed today, he might not recognize it tomorrow. Except for the heat, the humidity and the vultures.

Small Business Merits Newspaper Recognition

Your interest in our new San Rafael venture is appreciated. I would like to thank you on behalf of my partners and employees for the excellent coverage you gave us in your "Other People's Business' column.

Our San Rafael shop is starting off handsomely with a greater volume than anticipated. I attribute this to yourjournalistic interest in our "gas station" as well as the wide community acceptance we have received for our products.

Today a small business has very little chance of getting any notice in the "big city" press. We have been in San Francisco for three years, our company has been responsible for reviving and preserving the craft of old-fashioned ice cream making in this country and yet, not one story of any note has been done about us. Indeed, we have received more recognition through your paper than our total press publicity in the two San Francisco papers.

We feel that small enterprises such as ours must be given recognition and assistance, for isn't this the great American dream, that a small entrepreneur can bring a novel idea to the market place and find acceptance for it? It is up to the press of our country to publicize these ventures if others are still to have faith that indeed the "American dream" is not just a myth of some earlier days. . .

Would Ban Smoking Where Food Is Sold

When is Marin County going to get with it in banning smoking in public areas, particularly food stores? The much maligned city of Los Angeles has enacted this much-needed legislation — since I guess that they have just about had it with any form of pollution.

My husband and I recently went to make a purchase from the delicatessen of Petrini Plaza in Greenbrae. At the food counter an individual was nonchalantly puffing a cigar. When I courteously requested an employee to have the smoker please not smoke in an area where food was being sold, I was advised "we could not possibly do such a thing." At this juncture we left the store in disgust. . .

Separated Parents Want To Help Children

Thank you so much for your recent article on Birthright. We do appreciate your highlighting our service in its true sense of loving support for the pregnant girl, who has problems.

However, it would be presumptuous of me to suggest that parents do not support their children in these situations. In many cases, they do; in many others, they would like to have the opportunity.

Many of our clients are separated geographically from their parents and families; some wish to "spare" the family their idea of shame.

My advise to all of them is to give their parents a chance to understand them. They may be surprised after the initial shock has passed.

Pet Food Story Illustrates Our Willingness To Be Gulled

(Reprinted from Christian Science Monitor)

Last June, a Senate committee hearing on nutrition produced a 178-page report on government food programs. The UPI account of the conference noted, "In the world's wealthiest country, as much as one-third of the dog and cat food sold in city slums is being eaten by humans, a panel of nutritional experts reported today."

Jack Anderson soon reported that his associate Les Whitten tried some canned pet foods, which he found coarse tasting and hard to swallow unless mixed with water and salt. Peanut butter or cheese spread made dog food easier to get down, he found, but Mr. Anderson added that the poor can seldom afford these tasty spreads. Other commentators noted the depths to which the richest country in the world has sunk when its poor and impoverished are forced to eat pet food.

THERE MAY IN FACT be some Americans who eat pet food, since there's no accounting for taste and no telling what happens after it's purchased. But the New York Times reports that inquiries by city, state and federal health and welfare officials in the New York area have failed to substantiate any such claims. Many people had heard second or third-hand accounts of people who had eaten pet food, but that's as close to verification as investigators managed to get.

The "panel of experts" named in the UPI dispatch turns out to be the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a small Washington-based organization professing to represent the public interest. It seems that back in 1973 one of its co-directors was quoted in a newspaper article as having said that "one-third of dog food sold in ghettos is reportedly bought by the poor for themselves." But the director told free-lance writer Robert J. Samuelson, who reported on the pet food flap in the Columbia Journalism Review, that he doesn't recall having made the estimate, although he concedes that he might have. At any rate, the estimate found its way into an official staff report from the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, then later turned up in the committee report cited by UPI.

THE POINT OF ALL this is not to minimize the nutritional or dietary problems of the poor and aged. But the way such unverified claims are allowed to go unchallenged, indeed enshrined as fact, tell us something about our willingness to be gulled in what is deemed to be a good cause.

The need to believe such absurdities no doubt stems from a mixture of concern, ignorance and ideology. It is similar to the need to believe that a handful of prominent families control the American economy, that munitions manufacturers are responsible for pushing us into war, or that Jews control American banks and newspapers. Admittedly, such beliefs spare us from having to think through complex social and economic questions. But like the old cracker-barrel philosopher Josh Billings used to say, it's better to know nothing than to know what ain't so.

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

Gerald Ford may have played football without a helmet, but don't underestimate a president who can eat with chopsticks on the first try.

It's an embarrassing time for Ford. He's trying to cut federal spending at the very time so many defeated Republicans need jobs.

Senator Mondale has discovered an important truth. The way for a Democrat to get attention is to announce he's not running for president.

Some Changes In Prospect On Housing Authority Board

Roy Zattiero of Sleepy Hollow was three, asking pointed questions about how the authority handles its budgeting.

Don't be surprised if Zattiero, a relative newcomer to Marin but a veteran of homeowner association chairs in other Bay Area communities, shows up as an applicant for one of the vacancies on the authority board.

Zattiero explained that he's active with real estate management and is seeking homes for employees of a large firm that's moving most of its offices from San Francisco to Marin. The trouble is, how can an $8,000-a-year clerk find shelter in Marin?

ALSO, IF THE MARIN County supervisors decide to leave the housing authority standing on its own feet as an autonomous body, look for the authority's senior board member, Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. to quit. He's making no bones about his belief the agency shouldn't exist solo, and cannot do a good job under the ground rules of the federal Community Development Act of 1974.

Besides, Ehrlich says, some 11 years on the board is enough.

HOLIDAY MAGIC'S legal troubles aren't so horrendous as indicated by recent stories out of Washington, D.C., according to the firm's attorney, Alvin H. Goldstein Jr.

Goldstein, who quit a Marin Municipal Court judgeship to go into private law practice, thinks the Federal Trade Commission played an unfair trick in its news release about an order that the Holiday Magic firm repay more than $100,000 to investors over the past 10 years.

The federal agency didn't make it plain that its order won't ever be enforced if the company abides by repayment rulings in an earlier suit by the Securities Exchange Commission, Goldstein said.

That order, which theoretically could force the company to try to repay some $250 million, is being complied with by the company, the attorney said.

Deadline for claims was Aug. 12, the court and the company are processing the claims now. The trust holdings set up by William Penn Patrick, colorful founder of Holiday Magic, are being sold off by a court-appointed trustee and the proceeds are being added to Holiday Magic's nonoperating cash funds in the repayment plan. So far the fund contains are more than $2 million, Goldstein reported. The claims total isn't known yet.

THE THREE-DAY consumer awareness program set up for Redwood High School seniors seemed to be even more of a success last week than it was a year ago, judging by student attendance and their questions to the experts.

Teacher Susan Chellini, one of the program's founders, tells me that San Rafael High School and other schools around the state are interested in trying something similar.

Four Keep Christianity Alive In Peking

PEKING (UPI) — Christianity hangs on in Peking — kept alive by three old men and a woman.

"That is about all there is, really, but it is there," said Barbara Bush, wife of the U.S. envoy to China.

Christianity surfaces for an hour or so on Sundays in a crumbling plaster building about a mile from the forbidden city where Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung has his seat of atheistic authority.

In this gray-painted, smog-clouded capital, the three old men and a woman gather in a former Bible society headquarters, clinging to their faith in spite of intense official opposition.

Books, newspapers, billboards, radios, magazines, movies, plays and operas in this land of 900 million Chinese attack Christianity as well as old Chinese teachings such as the beliefs of the ancient sage Confucius.

The Communist campaign against religion surfaced in what Americans might consider unlikely places during Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's trip to Peking last week.

Strolling in the Chuocheng Gardens of Soochow on Friday, Kissinger stopped to admire 14 young girls singing and dancing in a circle on the grass.

In this land of the work brigade and communal confession, the girls seemed to express a universal innocence and humanity. But the expression suffered in translation.

The girls, whirling with joined hands, sang undeviating party line songs about hating and fighting revisionists, religion and other enemies of the people.

But, still, three old men and a woman muster on Sundays in Peking. One man was a Presbyterian minister before the Communist takeover in 1949. Another was an Episcopal pastor.

"I don't know what the other man was," Mrs. Bush said. "But I do know he is a Protestant, a Christian."

The hard core Chinese faithful — the aged trio and an elderly Peking woman — gather and hold service. Two or three other elderly Chinese Christians come in out of the city of 5 million non-believers.

They make a service. It is in Chinese. To them come a cluster of foreign diplomats.

"There are Americans and Germans and other Europeans and, importantly, the Africans," Mrs. Bush said. "Credit the Africans. They come most of all."

She said the service is in Chinese, but the hymns are in an assortment of languages. "The songs come in English, in German, and, oh, those wonderful African voices," she said.

And then, after words and music and an hour of prayer, Christianity fades away again in China. No one knows how many more Sundays Christianity will surface in this nation of 900 million.

Some Sugar Saving Tips To Bring Back Sweetness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Crisis of the Month Club has just named sugar as its selection for January.

"With prices rising toward $1 per pound, sugar has become exorbitant enough to rank with electricity as one of the bugaboos of inflation," the club's announcement said.

"Unless something is done soon, many Americans will be unable to afford sweetness and light."

THE PATTERN BY NOW is all too familiar. As with energy, the United States expends more sweetness than it produces and therefore is dependent on imports.

So sugar exporters double the price every two or three days. The impact of the upsurge is particularly acute in December, owing to the demand for sugar plums and other holiday goodies.

Various programs designed to make the United States self-sufficient in sweetness are being considered. But even the most sanguine estimates put realization of that goal at least 10 years away.

ONCE AGAIN, in consequence, the nation is forced to rely on the handy household helpful hints industry to see us through the crisis.

For the past year, the industry has been pouring out a heavy volume of tips on energy conservation. Thus it will take some time to gear up for sugar saving tip production. However, a few such hints are beginning to reach the hard-pressed consumer.

Drink fruit juice instead of pop; frost only the top layer of the cake; eat dill pickles rather than sweet pickles —these are a sampling of the output thus far.

Should you need other stopgap measures to tide you over until sugar saving tip production reaches full capacity, here are a few you might try:

—Mix sugar with water to form a simple syrup and pour it in an ice tray to freeze. Use these frozen sugar cubes to sweeten your coffee, tea or whatever.

Chances are you will finish drinking it before the cubes finish thawing, thereby using less sugar.

—GO THROUGH YOUR medicine cabinet, collect all the pills you no longer take and remove the sugar coating. It can be used to sweeten other things.

—Start a bee colony in your spare bedroom and use the honey it produces as a sweetener. Or, better yet, learn to gather nectar from flowers and make your own honey.

—Plant a honeysuckle vine outside your door and suck on it for dessert.

Parcel Service Contract Signed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Approximately 3,200 workers were scheduled to go back to work today after they signed a new two-year contract with the United Parcel Service, ending a two and a half week strike.

Striking drivers and packagers during the weekend ratified the new pact to end the work stoppage that began Nov. 12 in Southern California.

A UPS spokesman said the settlement will raise top hourly wages for drivers from $6.41 to $7.92, plus $2.34 in fringe benefits.

Actress Robbed Of Jewels, Furs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Burglars ransacked the East Side townhouse of actress Cecily Tyson and stole about $35,000 in jewels and furs, police said yesterday.

The burglary, discovered by an employee, occurred at the townhouse located just east of Fifth Avenue.

Police said the employee found the front door of the townhouse ajar and the third floor apartment ransacked. Police said Miss Tyson was not at home at the time of the discovery.

Fighter Plane Costs Soaring

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Brookings Institution study says American aircraft manufacturers could price U.S.-built fighters off the world market because of "astronomical" cost hikes.

The study estimated that inflation, complex technology and shorter production runs have doubled the cost of American fighter planes over the last four and one-half years and that the Navy's new F14 Tomcat will cost seven times as much as the plane it is replacing.

Hammock Is Latest Bedstyle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bored with waterbeds, then swing into the latest bedstyle — hammocks.

"I've given up my bed to sleep in a hammock," said Bruce Umbarger, who has grown tired of more conventional means of sleeping. "There's no backache because wyu most tension is where the most weight is — the trunk. And there are no worries about falling out."

A colorful netting of stretchy, cotton strands called the Giant Yucatan Hammock is a popular item at specialty stores these days. They range in price and size from a $20 single to a $60 model that sleeps two or sits six.

"For lounging and reading, you lie crosswise. For sleeping, you assume a diagonal position in which the body is straightened. In all positions, there is material remaining to draw up as a light cover, forming a kind of cocoon . . ."

"If anything, spending any length of time in a hammock would be harmful," said Dr. Stanley Kampner, an orthopedist. "A hammock doesn't offer any firm support to the spine. If you wanted to create problems for your back, regular use of a hammock is a good way to do it."

But an orthopedic surgeon, Dr. John E. Bancroft, says he knows of several young people who sleep in them and seem in fine shape.

"Sleeping in a hammock tends to put the body in a comfortable flexed position and that's fine," he said. "It's like being in an elevated hospital bed with the head high on pillows and legs raised. It relieves the heavy strain of being stiff and upright all day."

"Pregnant women, for whom any position is often uncomfortable, find full relief in the position the hammock affords," she said. "Further, during labor, they are suspended in the most natural position for giving birth."

Obstetricians contacted here didn't have any experience delivering babies in hammocks, but Dr. George K. Herzog Jr. said he found the technique "very interesting . . . for primitive people."

U.S. Likely To Purchase Resort Land

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (AP) — The 660-acre Meeks Bay Resort on the southwest shore of Lake Tahoe probably will become federal property next month, a U.S. Forest Service spokesman says.

"We've had an option on the property since last spring, and it looks like we're going to exercise it before the first of the year," said the spokesman, who asked not to be named.

He said the government would pay $3.1 million to electronics manufacturer William Hewlett for the wooded resort, which includes a marina, a lodge and 135 cottages.

The Forest Service hasn't decided yet what to do with the land, the spokesman said.

Hewlett bought Meeks Bay in 1971 at the request of the League to Save Lake Tahoe, which was concerned about a developer's announced plans to build 17,700 condominium units there.
